Introduction

The Principles set out in the Handbook apply to all aspects of practice, including the handling of client money. Those which are particularly relevant to these rules are that you must:

protect client money and assets;

act with integrity;

behave in a way that maintains the trust the public places in you and in the provision of legal services:

comply with your legal and regulatory obligations and deal with your regulators and ombudsmen in an open, timely and co-operative manner; and run your business or carry out your role in the business effectively and in accordance with proper governance and sound financial and risk management principles.

The desired outcomes which apply to these rules are that:

client money is safe;

clients and the public have confidence that client money held by firms will be safe;

firms are managed in such a way, and with appropriate systems and procedures in place, so as to safeguard client money:

client accounts are used for appropriate purposes only; and the SRA is aware of issues in a firm relevant to the protection of client money.

Underlying principles which are specific to the accounts rules are set out in rule 1 below.

These rules apply to all those who carry on or work in a firm and to the firm itself (see rules 4 and 5). In relation to a multi-disciplinary practice, the rules apply only in respect of those activities for which the practice is regulated by the SRA, and are concerned only with money handled by the practice which relates to those regulated activities.

Part A – General

(i)

Although many of the rules are expressed as applying to an individual solicitor, the The effect of the definition of "solicitoryou" in rule 2(2)(xzzo) is that the rules apply equally to all those who carry on or work in a practice firm and to the practice firm itself. See also rule 4 (persons governed by the rules) and rule 5 (persons exempt from the rules). Note however that, until [1 July 2009], rules which are stated to apply to a recognised sole practitioner, or the employee of a recognised sole practitioner, will apply to a sole practitioner or the employee of a sole practitioner.

The fees of interpreters, translators, process servers, surveyors, estate agents, etc., instructed by the solicitor are professional disbursements (see rule 2(2)(s)). Travel agents' charges are not professional disbursements.

(∀i)

The general definition of "office account" is wide (see rule $2(2)(p\underline{z})$). However, rule $\underline{1917}(1)(b)$ (receipt and transfer of costs) and rule $\underline{2119}(1)(b)$ and $\underline{2119}(2)(b)$ (payments from the Legal Services Commission) specify that certain money is to be placed in an office account at a bank or building society.Out-of-scope money can be held in an office account (which could be an account regulated by another regulator); it must not be held in a client account.

employees of a recognised sole practitioner, or of a sole practitioner who should be a recognised sole practitioner but has not been authorised by the SRA.

Part F of the rules (accountants' reports) also applies to reporting accountants.

Notes

(4)

If you have held or received client money, but no longer do so, whether or not you continue in practice, you continue to be bound by some of the rules.

Guidance notes

(i)

"You" is defined in rule 2(2)(zzo). All employees of a recognised body or licensed body are directly subject to the rules, following the amendment of section 9 of the Administration of Justice Act 1985changes made by the Legal Services Act 2007. All employees of a recognised sole practitioner are also directly subject to the rules as from the coming into force of newunder sections 1B and 34A of the Solicitors Act 1974. Non-compliance by any member of staff will also lead to the principals being in breach of the rules - see rule 6. Misconduct by an employee can also lead to an order of the SRA or the Solicitors Disciplinary Tribunal under section 43 of the Solicitors Act 1974 imposing restrictions on his or her employment. Solicitors who have held or received client money, but no longer do so, whether or not they continue in practice, continue to be bound by some of the rules - for instance:

Rules which continue to apply to you where you no longer hold client money include:

rule 7 (duty to remedy breaches);

rule 19 rules 17(2); and note (xi) to rule 19, rule 32(8) to), rule 29(15) to (24) and rule $\frac{3330}{3330}$ (retention of records);

rule 3431 (production of records);

Part F (accountants' reports), and in particular rule $\frac{3532}{3}$ and rule $\frac{3633}{5}$ (5) (delivery of final report), and rule $\frac{3835}{5}$ (2) and rule $\frac{4643}{5}$ (completion of checklist).

(iii)

The rules do not cover a solicitor's trusteeships carried on in a purely personal capacity outside any legal practice. It will normally be clear from the terms of the appointment whether the solicitor isyou are being appointed trustee in a purely personal capacity or in his or heryour professional capacity. If a solicitor isyou are charging for the work, it is clearly being done as solicitor in a professional capacity. Use of professional stationery may also indicate that the work is being done in a professional capacity.

(iv)

A solicitor who wishes to retire from private practice must will need to make a decision about any professional trusteeship. There are three possibilities:

(a) continue to act as a professional trustee (as evidenced by, for instance, charging for work done, or by continuing to use the title "solicitor" in connection with the trust). In this case, the solicitor must continue to hold a practising certificate, and money subject to the trust must continue to be dealt with in accordance with the rules.

(b)

continue to act as trustee, but in a purely personal capacity. In this case, the solicitor must stop charging for the work, and must not be held out as a solicitor (unless this is qualified by words such as "non-practising" or "retired") in connection with the trust.

(c) cease to be a trustee.

(v)

A licensed body may undertake a range of services, comprising both "traditional" legal services and other, related, services of a non-legal nature, for example, where a solicitor, estate agent and surveyor set up in practice together. Where a licensed body practises in this way (an MDP), only some of the services it provides (reserved and other legal activities, and other activities which are subject to one or more conditions on the body's licence) are within the regulatory reach of the SRA. Other, "non-legal", activities of the licensed body may be regulated by another regulator, and some activities may not fall within the regulatory ambit of any regulator.

Rule 5 - Persons exempt from the rules

The rules do not apply to:

(a) a solicitor you when:

(a)

practising as an employee of:

(i) a local authority;

(ii) statutory undertakers;

(iii)

a body whose accounts are audited by the Comptroller and Auditor General;

(iv)

the Duchy of Lancaster;

(v)

the Duchy of Cornwall; or

(vi)

the Church Commissioners; or

(b) a solicitor who practises practising as the Solicitor of the City of London; or

(c) a solicitor when carrying out the functions of:

(i) a coroner or other judicial office; or a sheriff or under-sheriff; or a solicitor when practising as a manager or employee of an authorised non-SRA firm, and acting within the scope of that firm's authorisation to practise.

(ii)

(d)

Notes

(i)

"Statutory undertakers" means:

(a)

any persons authorised by any enactment to carry on any railway, light railway, tramway, road transport, water transport, canal, inland navigation, dock, harbour, pier or lighthouse undertaking or any undertaking for the supply of hydraulic power; and

(b)

any licence holder within the meaning of the Electricity Act 1989, any public gas supplier, any water or sewerage undertaker, the Environment Agency, any public telecommunications operator, the Post Office, the Civil Aviation Authority and any relevant airport operator within the meaning of Part V of the Airports Act 1986.

(ii)

"Local authority" means any of those bodies which are listed in section 270 of the Local Government Act 1972 or in section 21(1) of the Local Government and Housing Act 1989.

(iii)

Guidance note

 A solicitorperson practising as a manager or employee of an authorised non-SRA firm is exempt from the Solicitors' Accounts Rules when the solicitor is acting within the scope of the firm's authorisation. Thus if a solicitor is a partner or employee in a firm authorised by the Council for Licensed Conveyancers, the rules will not apply to any money received by the solicitor in connection with conveyancing work. However if the solicitor does in-house litigation work - say collecting money owed to the firm - the Solicitors' Accounts Rules will apply to any money received by the solicitor in that context. This is because, whilst in-house litigation work is within the scope of the solicitor's authorisation as an individual, it is outside the scope of authorisation of the firm.

Rule 6 - Principals' responsibility for compliance

Back to VGW&Co Highlights list

All the principals in a practice firm must ensure compliance with the rules by the principals themselves and by everyone employed in the practice firm. This duty also extends to the directors of a recognised body or licensed body which is a company, or to the members of a recognised body or licensed body which is an LLP. It also extends to the COFA of a firm (whether a manager or non-manager).

Guidance note

Rule 8.5(c) of the SRA Authorisation Rules requires all firms to have a COFA. The appointment of a COFA satisfies the requirement under section 92 of the Legal Services Act 2007 for a licensed body to appoint a Head of Finance and Administration. Under rule 6 of the accounts rules, the COFA must ensure compliance with the accounts rules. This obligation is in addition to, not instead of, the duty of all the principals to ensure compliance (the COFA may be subject to this duty both as COFA and as a principal). Under rule 8.5(d) of the SRA Authorisation Rules, the COFA must report any material breaches of the accounts rules to the SRA as soon as reasonably practicable. (See also outcomes 10.3 and 10.4 of Chapter 10 of the SRA Code of Conduct in relation to the general duty to report serious financial difficulty or serious misconduct.)

Any breach of the rules must be remedied promptly upon discovery. This includes the replacement of any money improperly withheld or withdrawn from a client account.

(2)

In a private practice, the duty to remedy breaches rests not only on the person causing the breach, but also on all the principals in the practice firm. This duty extends to replacing missing client money from the principals' own resources, even if the money has been misappropriated by an employee or another principal, and whether or not a claim is subsequently made on the Solicitors' Indemnity firm's insurance or the Compensation Funds or on the firm's insurance.Fund.

Note

-—— For payment of interest when money should have been held in a client account but was not, see rule 24(2).

Rule 8 - [repealed]

Rule 9 -- Liquidators, trustees in bankruptcy, Court of Protection deputies and trustees of occupational pension schemes

(1)

A solicitor whoI in the course of practice acts you act as:

a liquidator,

a trustee in bankruptcy,

a Court of Protection deputy, or a trustee of an occupational pension scheme which is subject to section 47(1)(a) of the Pensions Act 1995 (appointment of an auditor) and section 49(1) (separate bank account) and regulations under section 49(2)(b) (books and records), you must comply with:

(a)

the appropriate statutory rules or regulations;

(b)

the Principles referred to, and the underlying principles set out, in rule 1; and the requirements of paragraphs (2) to (4) below;

(c)

and will then be deemed to have satisfactorily complied with the Solicitors' Accounts Rules.

In respect of any records kept under the appropriate statutory rules, there must also be compliance with:

(a) rule 32(829(15) - bills and notifications of costs;

(b) rule 32(929(17)(c) - retention of records;

(c) rule 32(1229(20) - centrally kept records;

(d) rule 3431 - production of records; and

(e) rule 4239(1)(I) and (p) - reporting accountant to check compliance.

(3)

If a liquidator or trustee in bankruptcy uses any of the practice's firm's client accounts for holding money pending transfer to the Insolvency Services Account or to a local bank account authorised by the Secretary of State, he or she must comply with the Solicitors' Accounts Rules in all respects whilst the money is held in the client account.

(4)

If the appropriate statutory rules or regulations do not govern the holding or receipt of client money in a particular situation (for example, money below a certain limit), the solicitor you must comply with the Solicitors' Accounts Rules in all respects in relation to that money.

Notes

Guidance notes

(i)

The Insolvency Regulations 1994 (S.I. 1994 no. 2507) regulate liquidators and trustees in bankruptcy.

(ii)

The Court of Protection Rules 2007 (S.I. 2007 no. 1744 (L.12)) regulate Court of Protection deputies (see rule 2(2)(jap)).

(iii)

Money held or received by solicitor liquidators, trustees in bankruptcy, Court of Protection deputies and trustees of occupational pension schemes is client money but, because of the statutory rules and rule 98 (1), it will not normally be kept in a client account. If for any reason it is held in a client account, the Solicitors' Accounts Rules apply to that money for the time it is so held (see rule 98(3) and (4)).

Rule 10 -9 - Joint accounts

If a solicitor, when acting in a client's matter holds, you hold or receives money jointly with the client, another solicitors' practice or another third party, the rules in general do not apply, but the following must be complied with:

(a) rule 32(829(11) - statements from banks, building societies and other financial institutions;

(b)

rule 29(15) - bills and notifications of costs;

(bc)

rule 32(929(17)(b)(ii) - retention of statements and passbooks;

(ed)

rule 32(1329(21) - centrally kept records;

(de)

rule 3431 - production of records; and (e[)

rule 4239(1)(m) and (p) - reporting accountant to check compliance.

A joint account is not a client account but money held in a joint account is client money.

Operation of the joint account by the solicitor you only

If the joint account is operated only by the solicitor, the solicitor you, you must ensure that he or she receives you receive the statements from the bank, building society or other financial institution, and has in accordance with rule 29(11), and have possession of any passbooks.

(3)

If the solicitor shares you share the operation of the joint account with the client, another solicitor's practice or another third party, the solicitor you must:

(a) ensure that he or she receives you receive the statements or duplicate statements from the bank, building society or other financial institution in accordance with rule 29(11), and retains them in accordance with rule $\frac{32(929(17)(b)(ii))}{32(929(17)(b)(ii))}$; and

(b)

ensure that he or she you either hashave possession of any passbooks, or takes copies of the passbook entries before handing any passbook to the other signatory, and retains them in accordance with rule (929(17)(b)(ii).

Operation of the joint account by the other account holder

If the joint account is operated solely by the other account holder, the solicitoryou must ensure that he or she receives you receive the statements or duplicate statements from the bank, building society or other financial institution in accordance with rule 29(11), and retains them in accordance with rule $\frac{32(929(17)(b)}{(ii)})$.

Note

------ Although a joint account is not a client account, money held in a joint account is client money.

Rule 11 - 10 - Operation of a client's own account

If a solicitor, in the course of practice operates, you operate a client's own account as signatory (for example, as donee under a power of attorney), the rules in general do not apply, but the following must be complied with:

(a) rule $\frac{3330}{30}(1)$ to $(\frac{34}{2})$ - accounting records for clients' own accounts;

(b) rule 3431 - production of records; and

(c) rule 4239(1)(n) and (p) - reporting accountant to check compliance.

Operation by the solicitor you only

If the account is operated by the solicitor you only, the solicitor you must ensure that he or she receives you receive the statements from the bank, building society or other financial institution in accordance with rule 30, and hashave possession of any passbooks.

Shared operation of the account

If the solicitor shares you share the operation of the account with the client or a co-attorney outside the solicitor's practice, the solicitor your firm, you must:

ensure that he or she receives you receive the statements or duplicate statements from the bank, building society or other financial institution and retains them in accordance with rule $\frac{3330}{1}$ to $(\frac{34}{2})$; and ensure that he or she you either hashave possession of any passbooks, or takes copies of the passbook entries before handing any passbook to the client or co-attorney, and retains them in accordance with rule 3330(1) to (34).

Operation of the account for a limited purpose

If the solicitor is you are given authority (whether as attorney or otherwise) to operate the account for a limited purpose only, such as the taking up of a share rights issue during the client's temporary absence, the solicitor you need not receive statements or possess passbooks, provided that he or she retains you retain details of all cheques drawn or paid in, and retains copies of all passbook entries, relating to the transaction, and retains them in accordance with rule 33.30(1) and (2).to (3).

Application

(5)

This rule applies only to solicitors in private practice. It does not cover money held or received by a donee of a power of attorney acting in a purely personal capacity outside any legal practice (see rule 4, notes (iii)-(iv)).

Notes

(6)

A "client's own account" covers all accounts in a client's own name, whether opened by the client himself or herself, or by you on the client's instructions under rule 15(1)(b). A "client's own account" also includes an account opened in the name of a person designated by the client under rule 15(1)(b).

Guidance notes

(i)

Money held in a client's own account (under a power of attorney or otherwise) is not "client money" for the purpose of the rules because it is not "held or received" by the solicitor.you. If the solicitor closesyou close the account and receives the closing balance, this becomes client money and must be paid into a client account, unless the client instructs subject to the contrary in accordance with rule 16(1)(a).all the rules.

(ii)

A solicitor who merely paysMerely paying money into a client's own account, or helpsing the client to complete forms in relation to such an account, is not "operating" the account.

(iii)

A solicitor If as executor who operates you operate the deceased's account (whether before or after the grant of probate), you will be subject to the limited requirements of rule 1110. If the account is subsequently transferred into the solicitor'syour name, or a new account is opened in the solicitor'syour name, the solicitoryou will have "held or received" client money and isare then subject to all the rules.

(iv)

The rules do not cover money held or received by a solicitor attorney acting in a purely personal capacity outside any legal practice. If a solicitor is charging for the work, it is clearly being done in the course of legal practice. See rule 4, note (iv) for the choices which can be made on retirement from private practice.

"A client's own account" covers all accounts in a client's own name, whether opened by the client himself or herself, or by the solicitor on the client's instructions under rule 16(1)(b).

(∀i)

"A client's own account" also includes an account opened in the name of a person designated by the client under rule 16(1)(b).

(∀ii)

Solicitors should also remember the requirements of rule 32(8) - bills and notifications of costs.

(∨iii)

For payment of interest, see rule 24, note (iii).

Rule 12 - Solicitor's 11 – Firm's rights not affected

Nothing in these rules deprives a solicitor you of any recourse or right, whether by way of lien, set off, counterclaim, charge or otherwise, against money standing to the credit of a client account.

Rule 13 - 12 - Categories of money

All(1)

These rules do not apply to out-of-scope money, save to the limited extent specified in the rules. All other money held or received in the course of practice falls into one or other of the following categories:

(a)

"client money" - money held or received for a client or as trustee, and all other money which is not office money; or

(b)

"office money" - money which belongs to the solicitor you or the practice your firm.

Notes

(i(2)

"Client money" includes money held or received:

(aa) a)

as trustee;

(a) b)

as agent, bailee, stakeholder, or as the donee of a power of attorney, or as a liquidator, trustee in bankruptcy, Court of Protection deputy or trustee of an occupational pension scheme;

(bc)

for payment of unpaid professional disbursements (for definition of "professional disbursement" see rule 2(2)(s));

(ed)

for payment of stamp duty land tax, Land Registry registration fees, telegraphic transfer fees and court fees; this is not office money because the solicitor has not incurred an obligation to the Inland Revenue, the Land Registry, the bank or the court to pay the duty or fee (contrast with note (xi)(c)(C) below); (on the other hand, if the solicitor has already paid the duty or fee out of his or her own resources, or has received the service on credit, payment subsequently received from the client will be office money - see note (xi)(c)(B) below); (but see also guidance note (i)):

(de)

as a payment on account of costs generally;

(ef)

as commissiona financial benefit paid in respect of a solicitor's client, unless the client has given the solicitoryou prior authority to retain it in accordance with rule 2.06(see Chapter 1, outcome 1.15 and indicative behaviour 1.18 of the Solicitors'SRA Code of Conduct 2007, or unless it falls within the £20 de minimis figure specified in that rule.):

(ii)

A solicitor to whom a cheque or draft is made out, and who in the course of practice endorses it over to a client or employer, has received client money. Even if no other client money is held or received, the solicitor will be subject to some provisions of the rules, e.g.)

rule 7 (duty to remedy breaches);

rule 32 (accounting records for client money);

rule 34 (production of records);

rule 35 (delivery of accountants' reports).

(iii)

Money held by solicitor liquidators, trustees in bankruptcy, Court of Protection deputies and trustees of occupational pension schemes is client money, subject to a limited application of the rules – see rule 9.

(iv)

Money held jointly with another person outside the practice (for example, with a lay trustee, or with another firm of solicitors) is client money subject to a limited application of the rules - see rule 10.

(∀3)

Money held to the sender's order is client money.

If money is accepted on such terms, it must be held in a client account.

(b)

However, a cheque or draft sent to a solicitor you on terms that the cheque or draft (as opposed to the money) is held to the sender's order must not be presented for payment without the sender's consent.

(c)

The recipient is always subject to a professional obligation to return the money, or the cheque or draft, to the sender on demand.

(∀i4)

An advance to a client from the solicitor which is paid into a client account under rule $\frac{1514}{2}(2)(b)$ becomes client money. For

(5)

A cheque in respect of damages and costs, made payable to the client but paid into a client account under rule 14(2)(e), becomes client money.

(6)

Endorsing a cheque or draft over to a client or employer in the course of practice amounts to receiving client money. Even if no other client money is held or received, you must comply with some provisions of the rules, e.g.:

- rule 7 (duty to remedy breaches);
- rule 29 (accounting records for client money);
- rule 31 (production of records);
- rule 32 (delivery of accountants' reports).

(7)

"Office money" includes:

(a)

money held or received in connection with running the firm; for example, PAYE, or VAT on the firm's fees; interest; on general client accounts; the bank or building society should be instructed to credit such interest to the office account - but see also rule 2414(2)(d); and

(b)

(c)

payments received in respect of:

(A)

fees due to the firm against a bill or written notification of costs incurred, which has been given or sent in accordance with rule 17(2):

(B)

disbursements already paid by the firm;

(C)

disbursements incurred but not yet paid by the firm, but excluding unpaid professional disbursements:

(D)

money paid for or towards an agreed fee; and

(d)

money held in a client account and earmarked for costs under rule 17(3)(e); and

(∀iie)

[deleted]

(∀iii)

money held or received from the Legal Services Commission as a regular payment (see rule 19(2)).

(8)

If a firm conducts a personal or office transaction - for instance, conveyancing - for a principal (or for a number of principals), money held or received on behalf of the principal(s) is office money. However, other circumstances may mean that the money is client money, for example:

(a)

If the firm also acts for a lender, money held or received on behalf of the lender is client money.

(b)

If the firm acts for a principal and, for example, his or her spouse jointly (assuming the spouse is not a partner in the practice), money received on their joint behalf is client money.

(c)

If the firm acts for an assistant solicitor, consultant or non-solicitor employee, or (if it is a company) a director, or (if it is an LLP) a member, he or she is regarded as a client of the firm, and money received for him or her is client money - even if he or she conducts the matter personally.

Guidance notes

(i)

Money held or received for payment of stamp duty land tax, Land Registry registration fees, telegraphic transfer fees and court fees is not office money because you have not incurred an obligation to HMRC, the Land Registry, the bank or the court to pay the duty or fee: (on the other hand, if you have already paid the duty or fee out of your own resources, or have received the service on credit, or the bank's charge for a telegraphic transfer forms part of your profit costs, payment subsequently received from the client will be office money):

(ii)

Money held:

by liquidators, trustees in bankruptcy. Court of Protection deputies and trustees of occupational pension schemes:

jointly with another person outside the practice (for example, with a lay trustee, or with another firm):

is client money, subject to a limited application of the rules - see rules 8 and 9. The donee of a power of attorney, who operates the donor's own account, is also subject to a limited application of the rules (see rule 10), although money kept in the donor's own account is not "client money" because it is not "held or received" by the donee.

(iii)

If the SRA intervenes in a practice, money from the practice is held or received by the SRA's intervention agent subject to a trust under Schedule 1 paragraph 7(1) of the Solicitors Act 1974, and is therefore client money. The same provision requires the agent to pay the money into a client account.

(₩İV)

A solicitor who, as the donce of a power of attorney, operates the donor's own account is subject to a limited application of these rules - see rule 11. Money kept in the donor's own account is not "client money", because it is not "held or received" by the solicitor.

(x)

Money held or received by a solicitor in the course of his or herMoney held or received in the course of employment when practising in one of the capacities listed in rule 5 (persons exempt from the rules) is not "client money" for the purpose of the rules, because the rules do not apply at all.

(xi) ⊻)

Office The receipt of out-of-scope money includes:

money held or received in connection of an MDP which is mixed with running the practice; for example, PAYE, or VAT on the firm's fees;

(b) interest on general client accounts; the bank or building society should be instructed to credit such interest to the office account - but see also rule 15(2)(d); other types of money is dealt with in rules 17 and 18.

(c) vi) payments received in respect of:

(A)
	fees due to the practice against a bill or written notification of costs incurred, which has been given or sent in accordance with rule 19(2); disbursements already paid by the practice (for definition of "disbursement" see rule 2(2) (k));
	······································

(C)

(B)

disbursements incurred butSee Appendices 1 and 2 (which do not yet paid by the practice, but excluding unpaid professional disbursements (for definition of "professional disbursement" see rule 2(2)(s), and note (v) to rule 2);

(D)

money paid for or towards an agreed fee - see rule 19(5); and money held in a client account and earmarked for costs under rule 19(3) (transfer of costs from client account to office account); and money held or received from the Legal Services Commission as a regular payment (see rule 21 (2)).

(d)

(xii)

A solicitor cannot be his or her own client for the purposeform part of the rules) for a summary of the rules, so that if a practice conducts a personal or office transaction - for instance, conveyancing - for a principal (or for a number of principals), money held or received on behalf of the principal(s) is office money. However, other circumstances may mean that the money is client money, for example:

(a)

If the practice also acts for a lender, money held or received on behalf of the lender is client money.

(b)

If the practice acts for a principal and, for example, his or her spouse jointly (assuming the spouse is not a partner in the practice), money received on their joint behalf is client money.

(c)

If the practice acts for an assistant solicitor, consultant or non-solicitor employee, or (if it is a company) a director, or (if it is an LLP) a member, he or she is regarded as a client of the practice, and money received for him or her is client money - even if he or she conducts the matter personally.

(xiii)

For a flowchart summarising the effect of the rules, see Appendix 1. For more details of and the treatment of different types of money, see the chart "Special situations - what applies" at Appendix 2. These two appendices are included to help solicitors and their staff find their way about the rules. Unlike the notes, they are not intended to affect the meaning of the rules.

Part B --- Client money and operation of a client account

Rule 14 - 13 - Client accounts

A solicitor who holds If you hold or receives client money, you must keep one or more client accounts (unless all the client money is always dealt with outside any client account in accordance with rule 8, rule 9, rule 10, rule 16, 15 or rule 176).

(2)

A "client account" is an account of a practice kept at a bank or building society for holding client money, in accordance with the requirements of this part of the rules.

(3)

The client account(s) of:

a sole practitioner must be either in the solicitor's name under which the sole practitioner is recognised by the SRA, whether that is the sole practitioner's own name or in the practice firm name;

(b) a partnership must be in the firm name; name under which the partnership is recognised by the SRA;

(c) an incorporated practice must be in the company name, or the name of the LLP, as registered at Companies House;

(d) in-house solicitors or RELs must be in the name of the current principal solicitor/REL or solicitors;/RELs;

trustees, where all the trustees of a trust are managers and/or employees of the same recognised body or licensed body, must be either in the name of the recognised body/licensedbody or in the name of the trustee(s);

(f)

trustees, where all the trustees of a trust are the sole practitioner and/or his or her employees, must be either in the name under which the sole practitioner is recognised by the SRA or in the name of the trustee(s); and the name of the account must also include the word "client". in full (an abbreviation is not acceptable).

A client account must be:

a bank account at a branch (or a bank's head office) in England and Wales; or

(b) a building society deposit or share account at a branch (or a society's head office) in England and Wales.

(5)

There are two types of client account:

(a)

a "separate designated client account", which is a deposit or sharean account for money relating to a single client, other person or trust, and which includes in its title, in addition to the requirements of rule 1413(3) above, a reference to the identity of the client, other person or trust; and a "general client account", which is any other client account.

(b)

Notes

(i)

For the client accounts of an executor, trustee or nominee company owned by a practice, see rule 31.

(ii)(6)

Before opening a client account, a licensed body must enter into a written agreement with the bank or building society acknowledging that the account will hold client money, and that the bank or building society shall not have any recourse or right against the money standing to its credit in respect of any liability of the licensed body to the bank or building society, other than a liability in connection with the account. This requirement must also be complied with by a firm which becomes a licensed body, whether opening new client accounts or using its existing client accounts. The licensed body must ensure that the agreement is kept on foot.

The clients of a licensed body must be informed at the outset of the retainer, or during the course of the retainer as appropriate, if the licensed body is (or becomes) owned by a bank or building society and its client account is held at that bank or building society (or another bank or building society in the same group).

(8)

Money held in a client account must be immediately available, even at the sacrifice of interest, unless the client otherwise instructs, or the circumstances clearly indicate otherwise.

Guidance notes

(i)

In the case of in-house solicitors practice, any client account should include the names of all solicitors of the Supreme Court or registered European lawyers held out on the notepaper as principals. The names of other employees who are solicitors of the Supreme Court or registered European lawyers may also be included if so desired. Any person whose name is included will be subject to the full Compensation Fund contribution and his or her name will have to be included on the accountant's report.

(iii)

"Bank" and "building society" are defined in rule 2(2)(c) and (d) respectively.

(i∀i)

A practice firm may have any number of separate designated client accounts and general client accounts.

The word "client" must appear in full; an abbreviation is not acceptable.

(∀iiii)

Compliance with rule 1413(1) to (4) ensures that clients of a recognised body or recognised sole practitioner, as well as the bank or building society, have the protection afforded by section 85 of the Solicitors Act 1974. Rule 13(6) seeks to give protection, similar to that afforded by section 85, to clients of licensed bodies. It will be repealed on the coming into force of the Order referred to in rule 53 which will give the equivalent statutory protections to client money held by a licensed body.

(∀ii)

Money held in a client account must be immediately available, even at the sacrifice of interest, unless the client otherwise instructs, or the circumstances clearly indicate otherwise.

Rule 15-14 – Use of a client account

Client money must without delay be paid into a client account, and must be held in a client account, except when the rules provide to the contrary (see rules $\underline{8}$, 9, $\underline{1015}$, 16, 17, $\underline{19}$ and $\underline{219}$).

(2)

Only client money may be paid into or held in a client account, except:

(a)

an amount of the solicitor's firm's own money required to open or maintain the account;

(b) an advance from the solicitor firm to fund a payment on behalf of a client or trust in excess of funds held for that client or trust; the sum becomes client money on payment into the account (for interest on client money, see rule $\frac{24(3)(e)}{22(2)(c)}$);

(c) money to replace any sum which for any reason has been drawn from the account in breach of rule 22-20; the replacement money becomes client money on payment into the account; and a sum in lieu of interest which is paid into a client account to enable the solicitor to make payment from the client account of all money owed to the client as an alternative; and a cheque in respect of damages and costs, made payable to the client, which is paid into the client account pursuant to making separate payments the Society's Conditional Fee Agreement; the sum becomes client money on payment into the account (but see rule 17(1)(e) for the transfer of the costs element from the office and client accounts); and except when the rules provide to the contrary (see note (ivii) below).

(e)

Client money must be returned to the client (or other person on whose behalf the money is held) promptly, as soon as there is no longer any proper reason to retain those funds. Payments received after the solicitor has you have already accounted to the client, for example by way of a refund, must be paid to the client promptly.

(4)

A solicitor You must promptly inform a client (or other person on whose behalf the money is held) in writing of the amount of any client money retained at the end of a matter (or the substantial conclusion of a matter), and the reason for that retention. The solicitor You must inform the client (or other person) in writing at least once every twelve months thereafter of the amount of client money still held and the reason for the retention, for as long as the solicitor continues you continue to hold that money.

Notes

(i)

See rule 13 and notes for the definition and examples of client money.

(ii)

"Without delay" is defined in rule 2(2)(z).

(iii)

(5)

You must not provide banking facilities through a client account. Payments into, and transfers or withdrawals from, a client account must be in respect of instructions relating to an underlying transaction (and the funds arising therefrom) or to a service forming part of your normal regulated activities.

(∀ii)

If client money is invested in the purchase of assets other than money - such as stocks or

Some schemes proposed by banks would aggregate the sums held in a number Rule 14(5) reflects decisions of client accounts, including one or more separate designated client accounts, in order to maximise the interest payable. This is acceptable only if:

each client account remains a separate account;

the rate of interest applied by the bank is the same for each client account; and the bank credits the total amount of the interest earned in respect of each separate designated client account to that account (see rule 24(1)), and credits the interest earned on any general client account to the office account (see note (xi)(b) to rule 13).

In the case of Wood and Burdett (case number 8669/2002 filed on 13 January 2004); the Solicitors Disciplinary Tribunal said that it is not a proper part of a solicitor: severyday business or practice to operate a banking facility for third parties, whether they are clients of the firm or not. Solicitors is should not, therefore, provide banking facilities through a client account. Further, solicitors are likely to lose the be noted that any exemption under the Financial Services and Markets Act 2000 is likely to be lost if a deposit is taken in circumstances which do not form part of a solicitor'syour practice. It should also be borne in mind that there are criminal sanctions against assisting money launderers.

(★⊻i)

As with rule 7 (Duty to remedy breaches), "promptly" in rule 1514(3) and (4) is not defined but should be given its natural meaning in the particular circumstances. Accounting to a client for any surplus funds will often fall naturally at the end of a matter. Other retainers may be more protracted and, even when the principal work has been completed, funds may still be needed, for example, to cover outstanding work in a conveyancing transaction or to meet a tax liability. (See also paragraphs 4.8 and 4.9 of the Guidelines for accounting procedures and systems at Appendix 3.)

(xí⊻ii)

There may be some instances when, during the course of a retainer, the specific purpose for which particular funds were paid no longer exists, for example, the need to instruct counsel or a medical expert. Rule 4514(3) is concerned with returning funds to clients at the end of a matter (or the substantial conclusion of a matter) and is not intended to apply to ongoing retainers. However, solicitors must always in order to act in the best interests of their clients andyour client, you may need to take instructions in such circumstances to ascertain, for instance, whether the money should be returned to the client or retained to cover the general funding or other aspects of the case.

(xiiviii)

(See rule $\frac{2220}{(1)(ga)-(hj)-(k)}$ for withdrawals from a client account when the rightful owner of funds cannot be traced.). The obligation to report regularly under rule 14(4) ceases to apply if you are no longer able to trace the client, at which point rule 20(1)(j) or (k) would apply.

Rule 16-15 - Client money withheld from client account on client's instructions

Client money may be:

held by the solicitor you outside a client account by, for example, retaining it in the solicitor's firm's safe in the form of cash, or placing it in an account in the solicitor's firm's name which is not a client account, such as an account outside England and Wales; or paid into an account at a bank, building society or other financial institution opened in the name of the client or of a person designated by the client;

but only if the client instructs the solicitor you to that effect for the client's own convenience, and only if the instructions are given in writing, or are given by other means and confirmed by the solicitor you to the client in writing.

It is improper to seek blanket agreements, through standard terms of business or otherwise, to hold client money outside a client account.

Notes

(i)

For advance payments from the Legal Services Commission, withheld from a client account on the Commission's instructions, see rule 21(1)(a).

(ii(3)

If a client instructs the solicitor you to hold part only of a payment in accordance with rule $\frac{1615}{10}(1)(a)$ or (b), the entire payment must first be placed in a client account. Rule 18 - [repealed]

Rule 19 - 17 - Receipt and transfer of costs

A solicitor who receives When you receive money paid in full or part settlement of the solicitor's your bill (or other notification of costs) you must follow one of the following four five options:

(a) determine the composition of the payment without delay, and deal with the money accordingly:

(i)

if the sum comprises office money and/or out-of-scope money only, it must be placed in an office account;

(ii)

if the sum comprises only client money (for example an unpaid professional disbursement - see rule 2(2)(s), and note (v) to rule 2), the entire sum must be placed in a client account;

(iii)

if the sum includes both office money and client money (such as unpaid professional disbursements; purchase money; or payments in advance for court fees, stamp duty land tax, Land Registry registration fees or telegraphic transfer fees), the solicitor must follow rule 20, or client money and out-of-scope money, or client money, out-of-scope money and office money, you must follow rule 18 (receipt of mixed payments); or ascertain that the payment comprises only office money and/or out-of-scope money, and/or client money in the form of professional disbursements incurred but not yet paid, and deal with the payment as follows:

(i) place the entire sum in an office account at a bank or building society branch (or head office) in England and Wales; and by the end of the second working day following receipt, either pay any unpaid professional disbursement, or transfer a sum for its settlement to a client account; or

(ii)

(c)

pay the entire sum into a client account (regardless of its composition), and transfer any office money and/or out-of-scope money out of the client account within 14 days of receipt; or

(d) on receipt of *costs*from the Legal Services Commission, follow the option in rule 2419 (1)(b;); or in relation to a cheque paid into a client account under rule 14(2)(e), transfer the costs element out of the client account within 14 days of receipt.

A solicitor who(e)

(2)

If you properly requires payment of his or her your fees from money held for a client or trust in a client account. you must first give or send a bill of costs, or other written notification of the costs incurred, to the client or the paying party.

(3)

Once the solicitor has you have complied with paragraph (2) above, the money earmarked for costs becomes office money and must be transferred out of the client account within 14 days.

(4)

A payment on account of costs generally in respect of those activities for which the practice is regulated by the SRA is client money, and must be held in a client account until the solicitor has you have complied with paragraph (2) above. (For an exception in the case of legal aid payments, see rule 2119 (1)(a)-). See also rule 18 on dealing with mixed payments of client money and/or out-of-scope money when part of a payment on account of costs relates to activities not regulated by the SRA.)

(5)

A payment for an agreed fee must be paid into an office account. An "agreed fee" is one that is fixed - not a fee that can be varied upwards, nor a fee that is dependent on the transaction being completed. An agreed fee must be evidenced in writing.

Round sum withdrawals on account of costs are a breach of the rules.

(8)

In the case of a trust of which the only trustee(s) are within the firm, the paying party will be the trustee (s) themselves. You must keep the original bill or notification of costs on the file, in addition to complying with rule 29(15) (central record or file of copy bills, etc.).

Guidance notes -

(ii

(i)

Money received for paid disbursements is office money.

Money received for unpaid professional disbursements is client money.

Money received for other unpaid disbursements for which the solicitor hasyou have incurred a liability to the payee (for example, travel agents' charges, taxi fares, courier charges or Land Registry search fees, payable on credit) is office money.

Money received for disbursements anticipated but not yet incurred is a payment on account, and is therefore client money.

(₩])

The option in rule 19.17(1)(a) allows a solicitoryou to place all payments in the correct account in the first instance. The option in rule 19.17(1)(b) allows the prompt banking into an office account of an invoice payment when the only uncertainty is whether or not the payment includes some client money in the form of unpaid professional disbursements. The option in rule 19.17(1)(c) allows the prompt banking into a client account of any invoice payment in advance of determining whether the payment is a mixture of office and client money (of whatever description), or client money and out-of-scope money, or client money, out-of-scope money and office money, or is only office money: and/or out-of-scope money.

A solicitor who is If you are not in a position to comply with the requirements of rule $\frac{1917}{(1)(b)}$. you cannot take advantage of that option.

(∀iv)

The option in rule $\frac{1917}{1}(1)(b)$ cannot be used if the money received includes a payment on account - for example, a payment for a professional disbursement anticipated but not yet incurred.

(∀i⊻)

In order to be able to use the option in rule $\frac{1917}{(1)(b)}$ for electronic payments or other direct transfers from clients, a solicitoryou may choose to establish a system whereby clients are given an office account number for payment of costs. The system must be capable of ensuring that, when invoices are sent to the client, no request is made for any client money, with the sole exception of money for professional disbursements already incurred but not yet paid.

(viivi)

Rule $\frac{1917}{1}(1)(c)$ allows clients to be given a single account number for making direct payments by electronic or other means - under this option, it has to be a client account.

(viii)

A solicitor will not be in breach of rule 19 as a result of a misdirected electronic payment or other direct transfer, provided:

(A)

appropriate systems are in place to ensure compliance;

(B) appropriate instructions were given to the client;

(C)

the client's mistake is remedied promptly upon discovery; and appropriate steps are taken to avoid future errors by the client.

"Properly" in rule 4917(2) implies that the work has actually been done, whether at the end of the matter or at an interim stage, and that the solicitor is entitled to appropriate the money for costs. you are entitled to appropriate the money for costs. For example, the costs set out in a completion statement in a conveyancing transaction will become due on completion and should be transferred out of the client account within 14 days of completion in accordance with rule 17 (3). The requirement to transfer costs out of the client account within a set time is intended to prevent costs being left on client account to conceal a shortage.

Costs transferred out of a client account in accordance with rule 19(2) and (3) must be specific sums relating to the bill or other written notification of costs, and covered by the amount held for the particular client or trust. Round sum withdrawals on account of costs will be a breach of the rules.

(xi)

In the case of a trust of which the only trustee(s) are within the firm, the paying party will be the trustee(s) themselves. The solicitor must keep the original bill or notification of costs on the file, in addition to complying with rule 32(8) (central record or file of copy bills, etc.).

Undrawn costs must not remain in a client account as a "cushion" against any future errors which could result in a shortage on that account, and cannot be regarded as available to set off against any general shortage on client account.

(xiii)(viii)

Money is "earmarked" for costs under rule 17(2) and (3) when you decide to use funds already held in client account to settle your bill. If you wish to obtain the client's prior approval, you will need to agree the amount to be taken with your client before issuing the bill to avoid the possibility of failing to meet the 14 day time limit for making the transfer out of client account. If you wish to retain the funds, for example, as money on account of costs on another matter, you will need to ask the client to send the full amount in settlement of the bill. If, when submitting a bill, you fail to indicate whether you intend to take your costs from client account, or expect the client to make a payment, you will be regarded as having "earmarked" your costs.

(ix)

An amendment to section 69 of the Solicitors Act 1974 by the Legal Services Act 2007 permits a solicitor or recognised body to sue on a bill which has been signed electronically and which the client has agreed can be delivered electronically.

(xi)

The bill of an MDP may be in respect of costs for work of the SRA-regulated part of the practice, and also for work that falls outside the scope of SRA regulation. Money received in respect of the non-SRA regulated work, including money for disbursements, is out-of-scope money and must be dealt with in accordance with rule 17.

Payments from the Legal Services Commission

Two special dispensations apply to payments (other than regular payments) from the Legal Services Commission:

(a)

An advance payment in anticipation of work to be carried out, although, which may include client money, may be placed in an office account, provided the Commission instructs in writing that this may be done.

(b)

A payment for costs (interim and/or final) may be paid into an office account at a bank or building society branch (or head office) in England and Wales, regardless of whether it consists wholly of office money, or is mixed with client money in the form of:

advance payments for fees or disbursements; or money for unpaid professional disbursements; provided all money for payment of disbursements is transferred to a client account (or the disbursements paid) within 14 days of receipt.

(ii)

The following provisions apply to regular payments from the Legal Services Commission:

"Regular payments" (which are office money) are:

standard monthly payments paid by the Commission under the civil legal aid contracting arrangements;

(ii) standard monthly payments paid by the Commission under the criminal legal aid contracting arrangements; and any other payments for work done or to be done received from the Commission under an arrangement for payments on a regular basis.

(iii)

(b)

Regular payments must be paid into an office account at a bank or building society branch (or head office) in England and Wales.

(c)

A solicitor You must within 28 days of submitting a report to the Commission, notifying completion of a matter, either:

(i) pay any unpaid professional disbursement(s), or transfer to a client account a sum equivalent to the amount of any unpaid professional disbursement(s), relating to that matter.

(ii)

(d)

In cases where the Commission permits solicitors you to submit reports at various stages during a matter rather than only at the end of a matter, the requirement in paragraph (c) above applies to any unpaid professional disbursement(s) included in each report so submitted.

Payments from a third party

If the Legal Services Commission has paid any costs to a solicitor you or a previously nominated solicitor firm in a matter (advice and assistance or legal help costs, advance payments or interim costs), or has paid professional disbursements direct, and costs are subsequently settled by a third party:

(a)

The entire third party payment must be paid into a client account.

(b)

A sum representing the payments made by the Commission must be retained in the client account.

(c)

Any balance belonging to the solicitor you must be transferred to an office account within 14 days of the solicitor your sending a report to the Commission containing details of the third party payment.

(d)

The sum retained in the client account as representing payments made by the Commission must be:

either recorded in the individual client's ledger account, and identified as the Commission's money; or recorded in a ledger account in the Commission's name, and identified by reference to the client or matter; and kept in the client account until notification from the Commission that it has recouped an equivalent sum from subsequent payments due to the solicitor. you. The retained sum must be transferred to an office account within 14 days of notification.

(ii)

(4)

Any part of a third party payment relating to unpaid professional disbursements or outstanding costs of the client's previous firm is client money, and must be kept in a client account until you pay the professional disbursement or outstanding costs.

Guidance notes

(i)

This rule deals with matters which specifically affect legal aid practitioners. It should not be read in isolation from the remainder of the rules which apply to all solicitors everyone, including legal aid practitioners.

(ii)

FranchisedIn cases carried out under public funding certificates, firms can apply for advance payments ("Payments on Account" under the issue of a certificate.Standard Civil Contract). The Legal Services Commission has issued instructions agreed that these payments may be placed in office account. For regular payments, see notes (vii)-(x) below.

(iii)

Rule 24.19(1)(b) deals with the specific problems of legal aid practitioners by allowing a mixed or indeterminate payment of costs (or even a payment consisting entirely of unpaid professional disbursements) to be paid into an office account, which for the purpose of rule 24.19(1)(b) must be an account at a bank or building society. However, it is always open to the solicitoryou to comply with rule 4917(1)(a) to (c), which are the options for all solicitors everyone for the receipt of costs. For regular payments, see notes (v) - (vii) - (x) below.

(iv)

Solicitors Firms are required by the Legal Services Commission to report promptly to the Commission on receipt of costs from a third party. It is advisable to keep a copy of the report on the file as proof of compliance with the Commission's requirements, as well as to demonstrate compliance with the rule.

(v)

A third party payment may also include unpaid professional disbursements or outstanding costs of the client's previous solicitor. This part of the payment is client money and must be kept in a client account until the solicitor pays the professional disbursement or outstanding costs.

(vi)

In rule 21, and elsewhere in the rules, references to the Legal Services Commission are to be read, where appropriate, as including the Legal Aid Board.

Regular payments are office money and are defined as such in the rules (rule 13, note (xi)(e)). They are neither advance payments nor payments of costs for the purposes of the rules. Regular payments must be paid into an office account which for the purpose of rule 21(2)(b) must be an account at a bank or building society.

(viii)

Firms in receipt of regular payments must deal with unpaid professional disbursements in the way prescribed by rule 21 Rule 19(2)(c). The rule) permits a solicitor who firm, which is required to transfer an amount to cover unpaid professional disbursements into a client account, to make the transfer from his or her its own resources if the regular payments are insufficient.

(₩)

The 28 day time limit for paying, or transferring an amount to a client account for, unpaid professional disbursements is for the purposes of these rules only. An earlier deadline may be imposed by contract with the Commission or with counsel, agents or experts. On the other hand, a solicitoryou may have agreed to pay later than 28 days from the submission of the report notifying completion of a matter, in which case rule 2119(2)(c) will require a transfer of the appropriate amount to a client account (but not payment) within 28 days. Solicitors are reminded of their professional obligation to pay the fees of foreign lawyers (see rule 10.07 of the Solicitors' Code of Conduct).

(×⊻іі)

For the appropriate accounting records for regular payments, see note (v) to rule 32.29(7).

Rule 22 - 20 - Withdrawals from a client account

Client money may only be withdrawn from a client account when it is:

properly required for a payment to or on behalf of the client (or other person on whose behalf the money is being held);

(aa) b)

properly required for a payment in the execution of a particular trust, including the purchase of an investment (other than money) in accordance with the trustee's powers;

(bc)

properly required for payment of a disbursement on behalf of the client or trust;

(ed)

properly required in full or partial reimbursement of money spent by the solicitor you on behalf of the client or trust;

(de)

transferred to another client account;

(e[)

withdrawn on the client's instructions, provided the instructions are for the client's convenience and are given in writing, or are given by other means and confirmed by the solicitor you to the client in writing;

(eag) transferred to an account other than a client account (such as an account outside England and Wales), or retained in cash, by a trustee in the proper performance of his or her duties;

(fh)

a refund to the solicitor you of an advance no longer required to fund a payment on behalf of a client or trust (see rule $\frac{1514}{(2)(b)}$;

(gi) money which has been paid into the account in breach of the rules (for example, money paid into the wrong separate designated client account) - see paragraph (45) below;

(gaj) money not covered by (a) to ($\underline{g_i}$) above, where the solicitor complies you comply with the conditions set out in rule $\frac{22(2A \ge 0.2)}{2}$; or money not covered by (a) to (gi) above, withdrawn from the account on the written authorisation of the SRA. The SRA may impose a condition that the solicitor you pay the money to a charity which gives an indemnity against any legitimate claim subsequently made for the sum received.

(hk)

(2)

[deleted]

(2A)

A withdrawal of client money under paragraph (1)(gei) above may be made only where the amount withdrawnheld does not exceed £50 in relation to any one individual client or trust matter and the solicitor you.

(a) establishes the identity of the owner of the money, or makes reasonable attempts to do so;

(b) makes adequate attempts to ascertain the proper destination of the money, and to return it to the rightful owner, unless the reasonable costs of doing so are likely to be excessive in relation to the amount held;

(c) pays the funds to a charity;

(d) records the steps taken in accordance with paragraphs (a)-(c) above and retains those records, together with all relevant documentation (including receipts from the charity), in accordance with rule $\frac{32}{(8A_{29}(16))}$ and $(\frac{917}{2})$ (a); and keeps a central register in accordance with rule 32(13A29(22).

(3)

Office money may only be withdrawn from a client account when it is:

(a) money properly paid into the account to open or maintain it under rule 1514(2)(a);

(b) properly required for payment of the solicitor's your costs under rule 1917(2) and (3);

(c)

the whole or part of a payment into a client account under rule $\frac{1917}{10}(1)(c)$; part of a mixed payment placed in a client account under rule 2018(2)(b); or money which has been paid into a client account in breach of the rules (for example, interest wrongly credited to a general client account) - see paragraph (45) below.

(d)

(4)

Out-of-scope money must be withdrawn from a client account in accordance with rules 17(1)(a), 17(1)(c) and 18 as appropriate.

(5)

Money which has been paid into a client account in breach of the rules must be withdrawn from the client account promptly upon discovery.

(56)

Money withdrawn in relation to a particular client or trust from a general client account must not exceed the money held on behalf of that client or trust in all the solicitor's your general client accounts (except as provided in paragraph (67) below).

(67)

A solicitor You may make a payment in respect of a particular client or trust out of a general client account, even if no money (or insufficient money) is held for that client or trust in the solicitor's your general client account(s), provided:

(a) sufficient money is held for that client or trust in a separate designated client account; and the appropriate transfer from the separate designated client account to a general client account is made immediately.

(b)

(78)

Money held for a client or trust in a separate designated client account must not be used for payments for another client or trust.

(89)

A client account must not be overdrawn, except in the following circumstances:

(a)

A separate designated client account of solicitor-operated in your capacity as trustee(s) can be overdrawn if the trustee(s) you make payments on behalf of the trust (for example, inheritance tax) before realising sufficient assets to cover the payments.

(b)

If a sole practitioner dies and his or her client accounts are frozen, the solicitor-manager can operate overdrawn client accounts which are overdrawn can be operated in accordance with the rules to the extent of the money held in the frozen accounts.

Guidance notes

Withdrawals in favour of solicitorfirm, and for payment of disbursements Disbursements to be paid direct from a client account, or already paid out of the solicitor'syour own money, can be withdrawn under rule $\frac{2220}{1}(1)(bc)$ or (c) (or rule $\frac{22(2)(b)}{10}$ or (c))d) in advance of preparing a bill of costs. Money to be withdrawn from a client account for the payment of costs (fees and disbursements) under rule $\frac{1917}{2}(2)$ and (3) becomes office money and is dealt with under rule $\frac{2220}{3}(3)$ (b).

(i)

(ii)

Money is "spent" under rule $\frac{2220}{(1)(c)}$ (or rule $\frac{22(2)(c)}{(d)}$ at the time when the solicitor despatchesyou despatch a cheque, unless the cheque is to be held to the solicitor'syour order. Money is also regarded as "spent" by the use of a credit account, so that, for example, search fees, taxi fares and courier charges incurred in this way may be transferred to the solicitor'syour office account.

(iii)

See rule $\frac{23(321(4))}{23(321(4))}$ for the way in which a withdrawal from a client account in your favour of the solicitor must be effected.

Cheques payable to banks, building societies, etc.

(iv)

In order to protect client money against misappropriation when cheques are made payable to banks, building societies or other large institutions, it is strongly recommended that solicitorsyou add the name and number of the account after the payee's name.

Drawing against uncleared cheques

A solicitor You should use discretion in drawing against a cheque received from or on behalf of a client before it has been cleared. If the cheque is not met, other clients' money will have been used to make the payment in breach of the rules: S(see rule 7 (duty to remedy breaches). A solicitor)). You may be able to avoid a breach of the rules by instructing the bank or building society to charge all unpaid credits to the solicitor'syour office or personal account.

Non-receipt of telegraphic transferelectronic payments

(vi)

If a solicitor acting for a client withdrawsyou withdraw money from a general client account on the strength of information that a telegraphic transferan electronic payment is on its way, but the telegraphic transferelectronic payment does not arrive, the solicitoryou will have used other clients' money in breach of the rules. See also rule 7 (duty to remedy breaches).

Withdrawals on instructions

(vii)

One of the reasons why a client might authorise a withdrawal under rule $\frac{2220}{10}(1)(\frac{1}{22})$ might be to have the money transferred to a type of account other than a client account. If so, the requirements of rule $\frac{1615}{15}$ must be complied with.

Withdrawals where the rightful owner cannot be traced, on the SRA²'s authorisation and without SRA authorisation

(viii)

Applications for authorisation under rule 2220(1)(hk) should be made to the Professional Ethics Guidance Team, who can advise on the criteria which must normally be met for authorisation to be given. Solicitors You may under rule 2220(1)(gai) pay to a charity sums of £50 or less per client or trust matter without the SRA: s authorisation, provided the safeguards set out in rule 22(2A20(2)) are followed. Solicitors You may, however, if they you prefer, apply to the SRA for prior authorisation in all cases.

(viiia) ix)

Solicitors You will need to apply to the SRA, whatever the amount involved, if the money to be withdrawn is not to be paid to a charity. This situation might arise, for example, if a solicitor hasyou have been unable to deliver a bill of costs because the client has become untraceable and so cannot make a transfer from client account to office account in accordance with rule 1917(2)-(3).

(₩)

After a practice has been wound up, banks_surplus balances are sometimes discover unclaimed balances discovered in an old client account. This money remains subject to rule $\frac{2220}{20}$ and rule $\frac{2321}{20}$. An application can be made to the SRA under rule $\frac{2220}{(1)(h)\cdot k)}$.

(x)

See rule 15(3) and notes (x)-(xi) to rule 15 on the return of client money when there is no longer any reason for its continued retention. See also rule 15(4) on reporting to the client when client money is retained at the end of a matter.

Rule 23 - 21 - Method of and authority for withdrawals from client account

A withdrawal from a client account may be made only after a specific authority in respect of that withdrawal has been signed by at least one of the following: an appropriate person or persons in accordance with the firm's procedures for signing on client account. An authority for withdrawals from client account may be signed electronically, subject to appropriate safeguards and controls.

(a) a solicitor who holds a current practising certificate or a registered European lawyer;

(b) a Fellow of the Institute of Legal Executives or licensed conveyancer who is a manager of the practice, where the practice is a recognised body;

(c) a Fellow of the Institute of Legal Executives or licensed conveyancer who is an employee of the practice, where the practice is a recognised body or recognised sole practitioner;

(d) a registered foreign lawyer who is a manager of the practice, where the practice is a recognised body; or any other individual who is a manager of the practice.

(e)

(2)

Firms must put in place appropriate systems and procedures governing withdrawals from client account, including who should be permitted by the firm to sign on client account. A non-manager owner or a non-employee owner of a licensed body is not an appropriate person to be a signatory on client account and must not be permitted by the firm to act in this way.

(3)

There is no need to comply with paragraph (1) above when transferring money from one general client account to another general client account at the same bank or building society.

(3) 4)

A withdrawal from a client account in your favour of the solicitor or the practice must be either by way of a cheque to the solicitor or practice, or by way of a transfer to the office account or to the solicitor's your personal account. The withdrawal must not be made in cash.

Notes

Reference should also be made to paragraph 4.1.A of the Guidelines for accounting procedures and systems at Appendix 3.

(i)

Guidance notes

(i)

A firm should select suitable people to authorise withdrawals from the client account. Firms will wish to consider whether any employee should be able to sign on client account, and whether signing rights should be given to all managers of the practice or limited to those managers directly involved in providing legal services. Someone who has no day-to-day involvement in the business of the practice is unlikely to be regarded as a suitable signatory because of the lack of proximity to client matters. An appropriate understanding of the requirements of the rules is essential – see paragraph 4.2 of the Guidelines for accounting procedures and systems at Appendix 3.

(ii)

Instructions to the bank or building society to withdraw money from a client account (rule 2321(1)) may be given over the telephone, provided a specific authority has been signed in accordance with this rule before the instructions are given. If a solicitor decides to take advantage of this arrangement, it is of paramount importance that the scheme has there are appropriate in-built safeguards, such as passwords, to give the greatest protection possible for client money. Suitable safeguards will also be needed for practices which operate a CHAPS terminal: or other form of electronic instruction for payment.

(iii)

In the case of a withdrawal by cheque, the specific authority (rule 2321(1)) is usually a signature on the cheque itself. Signing a blank cheque is not a specific authority.

(iii) iv)

A withdrawal from a client account by way of a private loan from one client to another can only be made if the provisions of rule $\frac{3027}{2}(2)$ are complied with.

(iv)

It is advisable that a withdrawal for payment to or on behalf of a client (or on behalf of a trust) be made by way of a crossed cheque whenever possible.

(v)

Solicitor-trustees who lf, in your capacity as trustee, you instruct an outside administrator to run, or continue to run, on a day_to_day basis, the business or property portfolio of an estate or trust, you will not need to comply with rule $\frac{2321}{1}$, provided all cheques are retained in accordance with rule $\frac{32(1029)}{18}$. (See also rule $\frac{3229}{10}$, note (ii)(d).)

(∀i)

Where the sum due to the client is sufficiently large, the solicitor should consider whether it should not appropriately be transferred to the client by direct bank transfer. For doing this, the solicitor would be entitled to make a modest administrative charge in addition to any charge made by the bank in connection with the transfer.

Land Registry application fees paid by "direct debit"

(vii)

Solicitors You may set up a "direct debit" system of payment for Land Registry application fees on either the office account or a client account. If a direct debit payment is to be taken from a client account for the payment of Land Registry application fees, the a signature of a person, within one of the categories listed in, which complies with the firm's systems and procedures set up under rule 23(1),21, on the application for registration will constitute the specific authority required by rule 2321(1). As with any other payment method, care must be taken to ensure that sufficient uncommitted funds are held in the client account for the particular client before signing the authority. Solicitors You should also bear in mind that should the Land Registry take an incorrect amount in error from a firm² s client account (for example, a duplicate payment), the firm will be in breach of the rules if other clients² money has been used as a result.

(viii)

If a solicitor failsyou fail to specify the correct Land Registry fee on the application for registration (either by specifying a lesser amount than that actually due, or failing to specify any fee at all), the solicitoryou will be in breach of rule 2321(1) if the Land Registry takes a sum from the solicitor'syour client account greater than that specified on the application, without a specific authority for the revised sum being in place as required by rule 2321. In order that the solicitoryou can comply with the rules, the Land Registry will need to contact the solicitoryou before taking the revised amount, so that the necessary authority may be signed prior to the revised amount being taken.

(₩viii)

Where the Land Registry contacts the solicitoryou by telephone, and the solicitor wishesyou wish to authorise an immediate payment by direct debit over the telephone, the solicitoryou will first need to check that there is sufficient money held in client account for the client and, if there is, that it is not committed to some other purpose.

(x) ix)

The specific authority required by rule 2321(1) can be signed after the telephone call has ended but must be signed before the additional payment (or correct full payment) is taken by the Land Registry. It is advisable to sign the authority promptly and, in any event, on the same day as the telephone instruction is given to the Land Registry to take the additional (or correct full) amount. If the solicitor decidesyou decide to fund any extra amount from the office account, the transfer of office money to the client account would need to be made, preferably on the same day but, in any event, before the direct debit is taken. The solicitor's Your internal procedures would need to make it clear to unqualified staff how to deal with such situations; for example, who they should consult be consulted before a direct debit for an amount other than that specified on the application can be authorised, and the mechanism for ensuring the new authority is signed by a person within one of the categories listed in rule 23 (1).permitted by the firm to sign on client account.

(xi) x)

A solicitor You may decide to set up a direct debit system of payment on the office account because, for example, he or she doesyou do not wish to allow the Land Registry to have access to the firm 's client account. Provided the solicitor is you are in funds, a transfer from the client account to the office account may be made under rule 2220(1)(ed) to reimburse the solicitor you as soon as the direct debit has been taken.

(xi)

Variable "direct debit" payments to the Land Registry, as described in paragraphs (vi)-(x) above, are not direct debits in the usual sense as each payment is authorised and confirmed individually. A traditional direct debit or standing order should not be set up on a client account because of the need for a specific authority for each withdrawal.

Part C - Interest

Back to VGW&Co Highlights list

Rule 2422 – When interest must be paid

(1)

When a solicitor holdsyou hold money in a separate designated client account for a client, or for a person funding all or part of the solicitor'syour fees, or for a trust, the solicitoryou must account to the client or that person or trust for all interest earned on the account.

When a solicitor holds money when it is fair and reasonable to do so in a general client account for a client, or for a person funding all or part of the solicitor's fees, or for a trust (or all the circumstances. (This also applies if money should have been held for a client or such other person or trust in a client account but was not), the solicitor must account to the client or that person or trust for a sum in lieu of interest calculated ... It also applies to money held in an account in accordance with rule 25:15(1)(a) (or which should have been held in such an account), or rule 16(d).)

(32)

A solicitor is You are not required to pay a sum in lieu of interest under paragraph (2) above:

(a)

if the amount calculated is £20 or less;

(b)

(i)

if the solicitor holds a sum of money not exceeding the amount shown in the left hand column below for a time not exceeding the period indicated in the right hand column:

Amount	Time
£1,000	8 weeks
£2,000	4 weeks
£10,000	2 weeks
£20,000	1 week

(ii)

if the solicitor holds a sum of money exceeding £20,000 for one week or less, unless it is fair and reasonable to account for a sum in lieu of interest having regard to all the circumstances; on money held for the payment of counsel's fees a professional disbursement, once counsel etc. has requested a delay in settlement;

(e)

(db) on money held for the Legal Services Commission;

(€)

on an advance from the solicitor you under rule $\frac{1514}{2}(2)(b)$ to fund a payment on behalf of the client or trust in excess of funds held for that client or trust; or if there is an agreement to contract out of the provisions of this rule under rule 2725.

(fd)

(43)

If sums of money are held intermittently during the course of acting, and the sum in lieu of interest calculated under rule 25 for any period is £20 or less, a sum in lieu of interest should still be paid if it is fair and reasonable in the circumstances to aggregate the sums in respect of the individual periods.

(5)

If money is held for a continuous period, and for part of that period it is held in a separate designated client account, the sum in lieu of interest for the rest of the period when the money was held in a general client account may as a result be £20 or less. A sum in lieu of interest should, however, be paid if it is fair and reasonable in the circumstances to do so.

(6)

If a solicitor holds money for a client (or person funding all or part of the solicitor's fees) in an account opened on the instructions of the client (or that person) under rule 16(1)(a), the solicitor must account to the client (or that person) for all interest earned on the account.

(aa)

If a solicitor-trustee, whether or not in strict accordance with rule 17(ca), holds money for a trust in an account of the solicitor-trustee which is not a client account, the solicitor-trustee must account to the trust for all interest earned on the account.

(b)

If a solicitor has failed to comply with instructions to open an account under rule 16(1)(a), the solicitor must account to the client (or the person funding all or part of the solicitor's fees) for a sum in lieu of any net loss of interest suffered by the client (or that person) as a result.

(7)

[deleted]

Notes You must have a written policy on the payment of interest, which seeks to provide a fair outcome. The terms of the policy must be drawn to the attention of the client at the outset of a retainer, unless it is inappropriate to do so in the circumstances.

Guidance notes

o Requirement to pay interest

(i)

The whole Money is normally held for a client as a necessary, but incidental, part of the retainer, to facilitate the carrying out of the client's instructions. The main purpose of the rules is to keep that money safe and available for the purpose for which it was provided. The rules also seek to provide for the payment of a fair sum of interest, when appropriate, which is unlikely to be as high as that obtainable by the client depositing those funds.

(ii)

An outcomes-focused approach has been adopted in this area, allowing firms the flexibility to set their own interest policies in order to achieve a fair outcome for both the client and the firm.

(iii)

In addition to your obligation under rule 22(3), it is good practice to explain your interest arrangements to clients. These will usually be based on client money being held in an instant access account to facilitate a transaction. Clients are unlikely to receive as much interest as might have been obtained had they held and invested the money themselves. A failure to explain the firm's policy on interest may lead to unrealistic expectations and, possibly, a complaint to the Legal Ombudsman.

(iv)

The Legal Services Act 2007 has abolished the distinction in the Solicitors Act 1974 between interest earned on client money held in a general client account or a separate designated client account must be credited to the account. However, the obligation to pay a sum in lieu of interest for amounts held in a general client account is subject to the de minimis provisions in rule 24(3)(a) and (b). Section 33(3) of the Solicitors Act 1974 permits solicitors to retain any , and therefore interest earned on client money held in the latter type of account is to be accounted for like interest on any other client money on a "fair and reasonable" basis. In practice, a firm which wishes to retain any part of the interest earned on client money in a general client account over and above that which they have to pay under these rules. (See also note and continue to have interest paid to the office account (see rule 12(7)(b)). The tax regime still requires banks to deduct tax at source from interest earned on separate designated client accounts based on the tax status of the individual clients, making it impracticable to retain any part of the interest earned on that type of account.

(v)

Some firms may wish to apply a de minimis by reference to the amount held and period for which it was held, for example, providing that no interest is payable if the amount calculated on the balance held is £20 or less. Any de minimis will need to be set at a reasonable level and regularly reviewed in the light of current interest rates.

(vi)

It is likely to be appropriate for firms to account for all interest earned in some circumstances, for example, where substantial sums of money are held for lengthy periods of time.

(vii)

If sums of money are held in relation to separate matters for the same client, it is normally appropriate to treat the money relating to the different matters separately but there may be cases when the matters are so closely related that they ought to be considered together, for example, when you are acting for a client in connection with numerous debt collection matters. Similarly, it may be fair and reasonable in the circumstances to aggregate sums of money held intermittently during the course of acting for a client.

(viii) le 15 on aggregation of accounts.)

(ii)

There is no requirement to pay $\frac{\text{a sum in lieu of}}{\text{a sum in lieu of}}$ interest on money held on instructions under rule $\frac{1615}{10}$ (1)(a) in a manner which attracts no interest.

(₩)

Accounts opened in the client's name under rule 1615(1)(b) (whether operated by the solicitoryou or not) are not subject to rule 2422, as the money is not held by the solicitoryou. All interest earned belongs to the client. The same applies to any account in the client's own name operated by the solicitoryou as signatory under rule 11.10.

(iv)

Money subject to a trust is client money (see rule 13), and rule 24 therefore applies to it.

Output Description (rule 24(3)(a) and (b))

The sum in lieu of interest is calculated over the whole period for which money is held (see rule 25(2)); if this sum is £20 or less, the solicitor need not account to the client, other person or trust. If sums of money are held in relation to separate matters for the same client, other person or trust, it is normally appropriate to treat the money relating to the different matters separately, so that, if any of the sums calculated is £20 or less, no sum in lieu of interest is payable. There will, however, be cases when the matters are so closely related that they ought to be considered together – for example, when a solicitor is acting for a client in connection with numerous debt collection matters.

⊖— Administrative charges

(∨i)

It is not improper to charge a reasonable fee for the handling of client money when the service provided is out of the ordinary.

o Interest policy (rule 22(3))

(x)

It is important that your clients should be aware of the terms of your interest policy. This should normally be covered at the outset of a retainer, although it may be unnecessary where you have acted for the client previously. It is open to you and your client to agree that interest will be dealt with in a different way (see rule 25).

o Unpresented cheques

(∀iixi)

A client may fail to present a cheque to his or her bank for payment. Whether or not it is reasonable to recalculate the amount due will depend on all the circumstances of the case. A reasonable charge may be made for any extra work carried out if the solicitor is you are legally entitled to make such a charge.

Liquidators, trustees in bankruptcy, Court of Protection deputies and trustees of occupational pension schemes

(∀iiixii)

Under rule 98, Part C of the rules does not normally apply to solicitors who are liquidators, etc. Solicitors You must comply with the appropriate statutory rules and regulations, and rules 98(3) and (4) as appropriate.

o Joint accounts

(₩xiii)

Under rule 109, Part C of the rules does not apply to joint accounts. If a solicitor holdsyou hold money jointly with a client, interest earned on the account will be for the benefit of the client unless otherwise agreed. If money is held jointly with another solicitors' practice, the allocation of interest earned will depend on the agreement reached.

(x)

[deleted]

o Failure to pay interest

(xaxiv)

A client, including one of joint clients, or a person funding all or part of a solicitor'syour fees, may complain to the Legal Complaints Service Ombudsman if he or she believes that interest, or a sum in lieu of interest, was due and has not been paid, or that the amount paid was insufficient. It is advisable for the client (or other person) to try to resolve the matter with the solicitoryou before approaching the Legal Complaints Service Ombudsman.

o Role of the reporting accountant

(xv)

Paragraph 2.8 of the Guidelines for accounting procedures and systems at Appendix 3 states the need for policies and systems in relation to the payment of interest.

(xvi)

The reporting accountant does not check for compliance with the interest provisions but has a duty under rule 40 to report any substantial departures from the Guidelines discovered whilst carrying out work in preparation of the accountant's report. The accountant is not, however, required to determine the adequacy of a firm's interest policy (see rule 41(d)).

Rule 2523 – Amount of interest

Solicitors must aim to obtain a reasonable rate of interest on money held in a separate designated client account, and must account for a fair sum in lieu of interest on money held in a general client account (or on money which should have been held in a client account but was not). The sum in lieu of interest need not necessarily reflect the highest rate of interest obtainable but it is not acceptable to look only at the lowest rate of interest obtainable.

(2)

The sum in lieu of interest for money held in a general client account (or on money which should have been held in a client account but was not) must be calculated on the balance or balances held over the whole period for which cleared funds are held at a rate not less than (whichever is the higher of) the following The interest paid must be a fair and reasonable sum calculated over the whole period for which the money is held.

Guidance notes

(i)

the rate of interest payable on a separate designated client account for the amount or amounts held, or

(ii)

the rate of interest payable on the relevant amount or amounts if placed on deposit on similar terms by a member of the business community at the bank or building society where the money is held.

(3)

If the money, or part of it, is held successively or concurrently in accounts at different banks or building societies, the relevant bank or building society for the purpose of paragraph (2) will be whichever of those banks or building societies offered the best rate on the date when the money was first held.

(4)

If, contrary to the rules, the money held for a client or other person is not held in a client account, the relevant bank or building society for the purpose of paragraph (2) will be a clearing bank or building society nominated by the client (or other person).

If, contrary to the rules, money held by a solicitor-trustee is not held in a client account, the solicitor-trustee has a particular obligation to comply with the requirement in paragraph (1) to account for a fair sum in lieu of interest.

Notes

(i)

The sum in lieu of interest has to be calculated over the whole period for which money is held – see rule 25(2). The solicitor You will usually account to the client for interest at the conclusion of the client's matter, but might in some cases consider it appropriate to account to the client at intervals throughout.

(ii)

The sum paid by way of interest need not necessarily reflect the highest rate of interest obtainable but it is unlikely to be appropriate to look only at the lowest rate of interest obtainable. A firm's policy on the calculation of interest will need to take into account factors such as:

the amount held;

the length of time for which cleared funds were held;

the need for instant access to the funds;

the rate of interest payable on the amount held in an instant access account at the bank or building society where the client account is kept:

the practice of the bank or building society where the client account is kept in relation to how often interest is compounded.

(iii)

A firm needs to have regard to the effect of the overall banking arrangements negotiated between it and the bank, on interest rates payable on individual balances. A fair sum of interest is unlikely to be achieved by applying interest rates which are set at an artificially low level to reflect, for example, more favourable terms in relation to the firm's office account.

(iv)

A firm might decide to apply a fixed rate of interest by reference, for example, to the base rate. In setting that rate, the firm would need to consider (and regularly review) the level of interest it actually receives on its client accounts, but also take into account its overall banking arrangements so far as they affect the rates received.

(v)

When looking at the period over which the sum in lieu of interest must be calculated, it will usually be unnecessary to check on actual clearance dates. When money is received by cheque and paid out by cheque, the normal clearance periods will usually cancel each other out, so that it will be satisfactory to look at the period between the dates when the incoming cheque is banked and the outgoing cheque is drawn.

(₩∨i)

Different considerations apply when payments in and out are not both made by cheque. So, for example, the relevant periods would normally be:

from the date when a solicitor receives you receive incoming money in cash until the date when the outgoing cheque is sent; from the date when an incoming telegraphic transfer begins to earn interest until the date when the outgoing cheque is sent;

from the date when an incoming cheque or banker's draft is or would normally be cleared until the date when the outgoing telegraphic transfer is made or banker's draft is obtained.

(i∀⊻ii)

The sum in lieu of interest is calculated by reference to the rates paid by the appropriate bank or building society (see rule 25(2) to (5)). Solicitors will therefore follow the practice of Rule 13(8) requires that bank or building society in determining how often interest is compounded over the period for which the cleared funds are held.

Moneymoney held in a client account must be immediately available, even at the sacrifice of interest, unless the client otherwise instructs, or the circumstances clearly indicate otherwise. The need for access can be taken into account in assessing the appropriate rate for calculating the sum to be paid in lieu of interest, or in assessing whether a reasonable rate of interest has been obtained for a separate designated client account.interest to be paid.

(∀i∨iii)

For failure by the solicitor to pay a sufficient sum by way of interest, or in lieu of interest, see note ($\frac{1}{24.22}$.

Rule 2624 – Interest on stakeholder money

When a solicitor holds you hold money as stakeholder, the solicitor you must pay interest, or a sum in lieu of interest, on the basis set out in rule 2422 to the person to whom the stake is paid.

Note

For contracting, unless the parties have contracted out of this provision; (see rule 27(2) and the notes to rule 27.25 (3)).

Rule 2725 – Contracting out

(1)

In appropriate circumstances a you and your client and his or her solicitor may by a written agreement come to a different arrangement as to the matters dealt with in rule 2422 (payment of interest).

(2)

A solicitor You must act fairly towards your clients when entering into an agreement to depart from the interest provisions, including providing sufficient information at the outset to enable them to give informed consent.

(3)

When acting as stakeholder you may, by a written agreement with his or her your own client and the other party to the transaction, come to a different arrangement as to the matters dealt with in rule 2422.

Notes

Guidance notes

(i)

Solicitors should act fairly towards their clients and provide sufficient information to enable them to give informed consent if it is felt appropriate to depart from the interest provisions. Whether it is appropriate to contract out depends on all the circumstances, for example, the size of the sum involved or the nature, status or bargaining position of the client. It might, for instance, be appropriate to contract out by standard terms of business if the client is a substantial commercial entity and the interest involved is modest in relation to the size of the transaction. The larger the sum of interest involved, the more there would be an onus on the solicitoryou to show that a client who had accepted a contracting out provision was properly informed and had been treated fairly. Contracting out is never appropriate if it is against the client's interests.

Contracting out which on the face of it appears to be against the client's interests is permissible where the client has given informed consent. For example, some clients may wish to contract out for reasons related to their tax position or to comply with their religious beliefs.

(iii)

(ii)

A firm which decides not to receive or pay interest, due to the religious beliefs of its principals, will need to ensure that clients are informed at the outset, so that they can choose to instruct another firm if the lack of interest is an issue for them.

(iv)

Another example of contracting out is when the client stipulates, and the firm agrees, that all interest earned should be paid to the client despite the terms of the firm's interest policy.

(v)

In principle, a solicitor-stakeholder is you are entitled to make a reasonable charge to the client for acting as stakeholder in the client's matter.

(₩vi)

Alternatively, it may be appropriate to include a special provision in the contract that the solicitorstakeholder retainsyou retain the interest on the deposit to cover his or heryour charges for acting as stakeholder. This is only acceptable if it will provide a fair and reasonable payment for the work and risk involved in holding a stake. The contract could stipulate a maximum charge, with any interest earned above that figure being paid to the recipient of the stake.

(₩⊻ii)

Any right to charge the client, or to stipulate for a charge which may fall on the client, would be excluded by, for instance, a prior agreement with the client for a fixed fee for the client's matter, or for an estimated fee which cannot be varied upwards in the absence of special circumstances. It is therefore not normal practice for a stakeholder in conveyancing transactions to receive a separate payment for holding the stake.

(∀⊻ііі)

A solicitor-stakeholder who seeks an agreement to exclude the operation of rule 2624 should be particularly careful not to take unfair advantage either of the client, or of the other party if unrepresented.

Rule 28 – [repealed]

Part D – Accounting systems and records

Rule 29 - 26 - Guidelines for accounting procedures and systems

The SRA may from time to time publish guidelines for accounting procedures and systems to assist solicitors you to comply with Parts A to D of the rules, and solicitors you may be required to justify any departure from the guidelines.

Notes

Guidance notes

(i)

The current guidelines appear at Appendix 3.

(ii)

The reporting accountant does not carry out a detailed check for compliance, but has a duty to report on any substantial departures from the guidelines discovered whilst carrying out work in preparation of his or her report (see rules 4340 and 4441(e)).

Rule 30-27 - Restrictions on transfers between clients

A paper transfer of money held in a general client account from the ledger of one client to the ledger of another client may only be made if:

(a) it would have been permissible to withdraw that sum from the account under rule 2220(1); and it would have been permissible to pay that sum into the account under rule 1514;

(b)

(but there is no requirement in the case of a paper transfer for the a written authority of a solicitor, etc., under rule $\frac{2321}{(1)}$).

No sum in respect of a private loan from one client to another can be paid out of funds held for the lender either:

by a payment from one client account to another;

(b)

by a paper transfer from the ledger of the lender to that of the borrower; or to the borrower directly, except with the prior written authority of both clients.

(c)

Notes

(i)

"Private loan" means a loan other than one provided by an institution which provides loans on standard terms in the normal course of its activities - rule 30(2) does not apply to loans made by an institutional lender. See also the Solicitors' Code of Conduct 2007 rule 3.16(2)(b), which prohibits a solicitor from acting for both lender and borrower in an individual mortgage at arm's length.

(ii)

If the (3)

If a private loan is to be made by (or to) joint clients, the consent of each client must be obtained.

Rule 31-28 – Executor, trustee or nominee companies

(1)

If a solicitors' practice your firm owns all the shares in a recognised body or a licensed body which is an executor, trustee or nominee company, the practice your firm and the recognised body or licensed body must not operate shared client accounts, but may:

(a) use one set of accounting records for money held, received or paid by the practice firm and the recognised body or licensed body; and/or deliver a single accountant's report for both the practice firm and the recognised body or licensed body.

(b)

(2)

If such a recognised body or licensed body as nominee receives a dividend cheque made out to the recognised body or licensedbody, and forwards the cheque, either endorsed or subject to equivalent instructions, to the share-owner's bank or building society, etc., the recognised body or licensed body will have received (and paid) client money. One way of complying with rule 3229 (accounting records) is to keep a copy of the letter to the share-owner's bank or building society, etc., on the file, and, in accordance with rule 32(1429(23)), to keep another copy in a central book of such letters. (See also rule 32(929(17))(f) (retention of records for six years)).

Notes [deleted]

Rule 32-29 – Accounting records for client accounts, etc.

Accounting records which must be kept

(1)

A solicitor You must at all times keep accounting records properly written up to show the solicitor's your dealings with:

(a) client money received, held or paid by the solicitor you; including client money held outside a client account under rule $\frac{1615}{(1)}(1)(a)$ or rule $\frac{17(ca16(d))}{(100)}$; and

(b)

[deleted]

(c)

any office money relating to any client or trust matter.

(2)

All dealings with client money must be appropriately recorded:

(a)

in a client cash account or in a record of sums transferred from one client ledger account to another; and on the client side of a separate client ledger account for each client (or other person, or trust).

(b)

No other entries may be made in these records.

(3)

If separate designated client accounts are used:

a combined cash account must be kept in order to show the total amount held in separate designated client accounts; and a record of the amount held for each client (or other person, or trust) must be made either in a deposit column of a client ledger account, or on the client side of a client ledger account kept specifically for a separate designated client account, for each client (or other person, or trust).

All dealings with office money relating to any client matter, or to any trust matter, must be appropriately recorded in an office cash account and on the office side of the appropriate client ledger account.

(5)

A cheque or draft received on behalf of a client and endorsed over, not passing through a client account, must be recorded in the books of account as a receipt and payment on behalf of the client. The same applies to cash received and not deposited in a client account but paid out to or on behalf of a client.

(6)

Money which has been paid into a client account under rule 17(1)(c) (receipt of costs), or rule 18(2)(b) (mixed money), and for the time being remains in a client account, is to be treated as client money, it must be appropriately identified and recorded on the client side of the client ledger account.

(7)

Money which has been paid into an office account under rule 17(1)(b) (receipt of costs), rule 19(1)(a) (advance payments from the Legal Services Commission), or rule 19(1)(b) (payment of costs from the Legal Services Commission), and for the time being remains in an office account without breaching the rules, is to be treated as office money. Money paid into an office account under rule 19(2)(b) (regular payments) is office money. All these payments must be appropriately identified and recorded on the office side of the client ledger account for the individual client or for the Legal Services Commission.

(8)

Client money in a currency other than sterling must be held in a separate account for the appropriate currency, and you must keep separate books of account for that currency.

Current balance

(5) 9)

The current balance on each client ledger account must always be shown, or be readily ascertainable, from the records kept in accordance with paragraphs (2) and (3) above.

Acting for both lender and borrower

(6) 10)

When acting for both lender and borrower on a mortgage advance, separate client ledger accounts for both clients need not be opened, provided that:

(a)

the funds belonging to each client are clearly identifiable; and the lender is an institutional lender which provides mortgages on standard terms in the normal course of its activities.

(b)

Statements from banks, building societies and other financial institutions

(11)

You must, at least every 5 weeks:

(a)

obtain hard copy statements (or duplicate statements permitted in lieu of the originals by rule 9(3) or (4)). from banks, building societies or other financial institutions, or obtain and save in the firm's accounting records, in a format which cannot be altered, an electronic version of the bank's, building society's or other financial institution's on-line record.

(b)

in respect of:

(i)

any general client account or separate designated client account;

(ii)

any joint account held under rule 9;

(iii)

any account which is not a client account but in which you hold client money under rule 15(1)(a) or rule 16(d); and

(iv)

any office account maintained in relation to the firm; and each statement or electronic version must begin at the end of the previous statement.

This provision does not apply in respect of passbook-operated accounts, nor in respect of the office accounts of an MDP operated solely for activities not subject to SRA regulation.

Reconciliations

(712)

Back to VGW&Co Highlights list

The solicitor You must, at least once every fourteen weeks in the case of money held by solicitor-trustees in passbook-operated separate designated client accounts, and at least once every five weeks in all other cases:

(a) compare the balance on the client cash account(s) with the balances shown on the statements and passbooks (after allowing for all unpresented items) of all general client accounts and separate designated client accounts, and of any account which is not a client account but in which the solicitor holds you hold client money under rule 1615(1)(a) or rule 17(ca16(d)), and any client money held by the solicitor you in cash; and

(b)

as at the same date prepare a listing of all the balances shown by the client ledger accounts of the liabilities to clients (and other persons, and trusts) and compare the total of those balances with the balance on the client cash account; and also prepare a reconciliation statement; this statement must show the cause of the difference, if any, shown by each of the above comparisons.

(c)

(13)

Reconciliations must be carried out as they fall due, or at the latest by the due date for the next reconciliation. In the case of a separate designated client account operated with a passbook, there is no need to ask the bank, building society or other financial institution for confirmation of the balance held. In the case of other separate designated client accounts, you must either obtain statements at least monthly or written confirmation of the balance direct from the bank, building society or other financial institution. There is no requirement to check that interest has been credited since the last statement, or the last entry in the passbook.

(14)

All shortages must be shown. In making the comparisons under rule 29(12)(a) and (b), you must not, therefore, use credits of one client against debits of another when checking total client liabilities.

Bills and notifications of costs

(815)

The solicitor You must keep readily accessible a central record or file of copies of:

(a)

all bills given or sent by the solicitor; you (other than those relating entirely to activities not regulated by the SRA); and all other written notifications of costs given or sent by the solicitor;

(b)

in both cases distinguishing between fees, disbursements you (other than those relating entirely to activities not yet paid at the date of the bill, and paid disbursements.regulated by the SRA).

Withdrawals under rule 2220(1)(gaj)

(8A16)

A solicitor who withdraws If you withdraw client money under rule $\frac{2220}{(1)(ga)}$ j you must keep a record of the steps taken in accordance with rule $\frac{22(2A20(2)(a)-(c))}{(a)-(c)}$, together with all relevant documentation (including receipts from the charity).

Retention of records

(917)

The solicitor You must retain for at least six years from the date of the last entry:

(a) all documents or other records required by paragraphs (1) to (8410) and (12) to (16) above;

(b) all statements required by paragraph (11)(a) above and passbooks, as printed and issued by the bank, building society or other financial institution; and/or all duplicate statementson-line records obtained and copies of passbook entries permittedsaved in lieu of the originals by rule 10(3) or (4), electronic form under paragraph (11)(b) above.

for:

(i) any general client account or separate designated client account;

(ii)

any joint account held under rule 109;

(iii)

any account which is not a client account but in which the solicitor holds you hold client money under rule $\frac{1615}{1}(1)(a)$ or rule $\frac{17(ca16(d))}{10}$; and

(iv)

[deleted]

(∀)

any office account maintained in relation to the practice, but not the office accounts of an MDP operated solely for activities not subject to SRA regulation;

(c) any records kept under rule 98 (liquidators, trustees in bankruptcy, Court of Protection deputies and trustees of occupational pension schemes) including, as printed or otherwise issued, any statements, passbooks and other accounting records originating outside the solicitor's your office;

(d)

any written instructions to withhold client money from a client account (or a copy of the solicitor's your confirmation of oral instructions) in accordance with rule 16;15:

(e) any central registers kept under paragraphs (1119) to (13A22) below; and any copy letters kept centrally under rule 3128(2)()(dividend cheques endorsed over by nominee company).

(f)

(1018)

The solicitor You must retain for at least two years:

(a) originals or copies of all authorities, other than cheques, for the withdrawal of money from a client account; and

(b) all original paid cheques (or digital images of the front and back of all original paid cheques), unless there is a written arrangement with the bank, building society or other financial institution that:

(i) it will retain the original cheques on the solicitor's your behalf for that period; or in the event of destruction of any original cheques, it will retain digital images of the front and back of those cheques on the solicitor's your behalf for that period and will, on demand by the solicitor, the solicitor's you, your reporting accountant or the SRA, produce copies of the digital images accompanied, when requested, by a certificate of verification signed by an authorised officer.

(ii)

(c)

The requirement to keep paid cheques under paragraph (b) above extends to all cheques drawn on a client account, or on an account in which client money is held outside a client account under rule 15(1) (a) or rule 16(d).

(d)

Microfilmed copies of paid cheques are not acceptable for the purposes of paragraph (b) above. If a bank, building society or other financial institution is able to provide microfilmed copies only. you must obtain the original paid cheques from the bank etc. and retain them for at least two years.

Centrally kept records for certain accounts, etc.

(11) 19)

Statements and passbooks for client money held outside a client account under rule $\frac{1615}{15}(1)(a)$ or rule $\frac{17(ca16)}{(d)}$ must be kept together centrally, or the solicitor you must maintain a central register of these accounts.

(12) 20)

Any records kept under rule 98 (liquidators, trustees in bankruptcy, Court of Protection deputies and trustees of occupational pension schemes) must be kept together centrally, or the solicitor you must maintain a central register of the appointments.

(13) 21)

The statements, passbooks, duplicate statements and copies of passbook entries relating to any joint account held under rule 409 must be kept together centrally, or the solicitor you must maintain a central register of all joint accounts.

(13A) 22)

A central register of all withdrawals made under rule $\frac{2220}{(1)(ga)}$ must be kept, detailing the name of the client, other person or trust on whose behalf the money is held (if known), the amount, the name of the recipient charity and the date of the payment.

(14) 23)

If a nominee company follows the option in rule 3128(2) (keeping instruction letters for dividend payments), a central book must be kept of all instruction letters to the share-owner's bank or building society, etc.

Computerisation

(15) 24)

Records required by this rule may be kept on a computerised system, apart from the following documents, which must be retained as printed or otherwise issued:

(a) original statements and passbooks retained under paragraph (917)(b) above;

(b) original statements, passbooks and other accounting records retained under paragraph (917)(c) above; and original cheques and copy authorities retained under paragraph (1018) above.

There is no obligation to keep a hard copy of computerised records. However, if no hard copy is kept, the information recorded must be capable of being reproduced reasonably quickly in printed form for at least six years, or for at least two years in the case of digital images of paid cheques retained under paragraph (4018) above.

Suspense ledger accounts

(16) 25)

Suspense client ledger accounts may be used only when the solicitor you can justify their use; for instance, for temporary use on receipt of an unidentified payment, if time is needed to establish the nature of the payment or the identity of the client.

Notes

Guidance notes

(i)

It is strongly recommended that accounting records are written up at least weekly, even in the smallest practice, and daily in the case of larger firms.

(ii)

Rule $\frac{3229}{1}$ to (610) (general record-keeping requirements) and rule $\frac{32(729(12))}{12}$ (reconciliations) do not apply to:

(a) solicitor liquidators, trustees in bankruptcy, Court of Protection deputies and trustees of occupational pension schemes operating in accordance with statutory rules or regulations under rule 98(1)(a);

(b) joint accounts operated under rule 10;9;

(C) a client's own account operated under rule 4410; the record-keeping requirements for this type of account are set out in rule 33;30;

(d) solicitor-trustees who you in your capacity as a trustee when you instruct an outside administrator to run, or continue to run, on a day_to_day basis, the business or property portfolio of an estate or trust, provided the administrator keeps and retains appropriate accounting records, which are available for inspection by the SRA in accordance with rule 3431. (See also note (v) to rule 231.)

(iii)

When a cheque or draft is received on behalf of a client and is endorsed over, not passing through a client account, it must be recorded in the books of account as a receipt and payment on behalf of the client. The same applies to cash received and not deposited in a client account but paid out to or on behalf of a client. A cheque made payable to a client, which is forwarded to the client by the solicitoryou, is not client money and falls outside the rules, although it is advisable to record the action taken. See rule 14(2)(e) for the treatment of a damages cheque, made payable to the client, which you pay into a client account under the Law Society's Conditional Fee Agreement.

(iv)

For the purpose of rule 32, money which has been paid into a client account under rule 19(1)(c) (receipt of costs), or under rule 20(2)(b) (mixed money), and for the time being remains in a client account, is to be treated as client money; it should be recorded on the client side of the client ledger account, but must be appropriately identified.

(∀)

For the purpose of rule 32, money which has been paid into an office account under rule 19(1)(b) (receipt of costs), rule 21(1)(a) (advance payments from the Legal Services Commission), or under rule 21(1)(b) (payment of costs from the Legal Services Commission), and for the time being remains in an office account without breaching the rules, is to be treated as office money. Money paid into an office account under rule 21(2)(b) (regular payments) is office money. All these payments should be recorded on the office side of the client ledger account (for the individual client or for the Legal Services Commission), and must be appropriately identified.

(vi)

Some accounting systems do not retain a record of past daily balances. This does not put the solicitoryou in breach of rule 32(5):29(9).

(vii⊻)

"Clearly identifiable" in rule 32(629(10) means that by looking at the ledger account the nature and owner of the mortgage advance are unambiguously stated. For example, if a mortgage advance of £100,000 is received from the ABC Building Society, the entry should be recorded as "£100,000, mortgage advance, ABC Building Society". It is not enough to state that the money was received from the ABC Building Society without specifying the nature of the payment, or vice versa.

(vi#)

Although the solicitor doesyou do not open a separate ledger account for the lender, the mortgage advance credited to that account belongs to the lender, not to the borrower, until completion takes place. Improper removal of these mortgage funds from a client account would be a breach of rule 22:20.

(ix) vii)

Reconciliations should be carried out as they fall due, and in any event no later than the due date for the next reconciliation. In the case of a separate designated client account operated with a passbook, there is no need to ask the bank, building society or other financial institution for confirmation of the balance held. In the case of other separate designated client accounts, the solicitor should either obtain statements at least monthly, or should obtain written confirmation of the balance direct from the bank, building society or other financial institution. There is no requirement to check that interest has been credited since the last statement, or the last entry in the passbook.

(x)

In making the comparisons under rule 32(7)(a) and (b), some solicitors use credits of one client against debits of another when checking total client liabilities. This is improper because it fails to show up the shortage.

(xi)

The effect of rule 32(9)(b) is that the solicitor must ensure that the bank issues hard copy statements. Statements sent from the bank to its solicitor customer by means of electronic mail, even if capable of being printed off as hard copies, will not suffice.

(xii)

Section 67 of the Solicitors Act 1974 permits a solicitor or recognised body to include on a bill of costs any disbursements which have been properly incurred but not paid before delivery of the bill, subject to those disbursements being described on the bill as unpaid.

(viii)

Rule $\frac{32(929(17))}{(d)}$ - retention of client's instructions to withhold money from a client account - does not require records to be kept centrally; however this may be prudent, to avoid losing the instructions if the file is passed to the client.

(xiii) ix)

A solicitor who holds client money in a currency other than sterling should hold that money in a separate account for the appropriate currency. Separate books of account should be kept for that currency.

(xiv)

The requirement to keep paid cheques under rule 32(10)(b) extends to all cheques drawn on a client account, or on an account in which client money is held outside a client account under rule 16(1)(a) or rule 17(ca).

(xv)

Solicitors You may enter into an arrangement whereby the bank keeps digital images of paid cheques in place of the originals. The bank should take an electronic image of the front and back of each cheque in black and white and agree to hold such images, and to make printed copies available on request, for at least two years. Alternatively, solicitorsyou may take and keep theiryour own digital images of paid cheques.

(xvi) x)

Microfilmed copies of paid cheques are not acceptable for the purposes of rule 32(10)(b). If a bank is able to provide microfilmed copies only, the solicitor must obtain the original paid cheques from the bank and retain them for at least two years.

(xvii)

Certificates of verification in relation to digital images of cheques may on occasion be required by the SRA when exercising its investigative and enforcement powers. The reporting accountant will not need to ask for a certificate of verification but will be able to rely on the printed copy of the digital image as if it were the original.

(xi)

These rules require an MDP to keep accounting records only in respect of those activities for which it is regulated by the SRA. Where an MDP acts for a client in a matter which includes activities regulated by the SRA, and activities outside the SRA's regulatory reach, the accounting records should record the MDP's dealings in respect of the SRA-regulated part of the client's matter. It may also be necessary to include in those records dealings with out-of-scope money where that money has been handled in connection with, or relates to, the SRA-regulated part of the transaction. An MDP is not required to maintain records in respect of client matters which relate entirely to activities not regulated by the SRA.

Rule 33 - 30 - Accounting records for clients' own accounts

When a solicitor operates you operate a client's own account as signatory under rule 11, the solicitor 10. you must retain, for at least six years from the date of the last entry, the statements or passbooks as printed and issued by the bank, building society or other financial institution, and/or the duplicate statements, copies of passbook entries and cheque details permitted in lieu of the originals by rule 1110(3) or (4); and any central register kept under paragraph (2) below.

(2)

The solicitor You must either keep these records together centrally, or maintain a central register of the accounts operated under rule 11.10.

(3)

If you use on-line records made available by the bank, building society or other financial institution, you must save an electronic version in the firm's accounting records in a format which cannot be altered. There is no obligation to keep a hard copy but the information recorded must be capable of being reproduced reasonably quickly in printed form for at least six years.

(4)

I, when the solicitor ceases you cease to operate the account, the client requests the original statements or passbooks, the solicitor you must take photocopies and keep them in lieu of the originals.

(45)

This rule applies only to solicitors in private practice.

Note

Solicitors should remember the requirements of rule 32(8) (central record of bills, etc.).

Part E - Monitoring and investigation by the SRA

Rule 34-31 – Production of records documents, information and explanations

(1)

Any solicitor You must at the time and place fixed by the SRA produce to any person appointed by the SRA any records, papers, client and trust matter files, financial accounts and other documents, and any other information, necessary to enable preparation of a report on compliance with the rules.

(2)

A requirement for production under paragraph (1) above must be in writing, and left at or sent by the "recorded signed for" post or "special delivery next day" service document exchange to the most recent address held by the *SRA*¹/s Information Directorate, or sent electronically to the firm's e-mail or fax address, or delivered by the *SRA*¹/s appointee. If sent through the post, receipt will be A notice under this rule is deemed 48 hours (excluding Saturdays, Sundays and Bank Holidays) after posting to be duly served:

(a)

on the date on which it is delivered to or left at your address;

(b)

on the date on which it is sent electronically to your e-mail or fax address; or

(c)

48 hours (excluding Saturdays, Sundays and Bank Holidays) after it has been sent by post or document exchange.

(3)

Material kept electronically must be produced in the form required by the SRA2's appointee.

(4)

The SRA¹'s appointee is entitled to seek verification from clients and staff, and from the banks, building societies and other financial institutions used by the solicitor. The solicitor you. You must, if necessary, provide written permission for the information to be given.

(5)

The SRA:'s appointee is not entitled to take original documents away but must be provided with photocopies on request.

(6)

A solicitor You must be prepared to explain and justify any departures from the gGuidelines for accounting procedures and systems published by the SRA (see rule 296).

(7)

Any report made by the *SRA*¹/₂'s appointee may, if appropriate, be sent to the Crown Prosecution Service or the Serious Fraud Office and/or used in proceedings before the Solicitors Disciplinary Tribunal. In the case of a registered European lawyer an REL or registered foreign lawyer RFL, the report may also be sent to the competent authority in that lawyer¹/₂'s home state or states. In the case of a solicitor of the Supreme Court who is established in another state under the Establishment of Lawyers Directive 98/5/EC, the report may also be sent to the competent authority in the host state. The report may also be sent to any of the accountancy bodies set out in rule 37.34(1)(a) and/or taken into account by the SRA in relation to a possible disqualification of a reporting accountant under rule 37.34(3).

(8)

Without prejudice to paragraph (1) above, any solicitor you must produce documents relating to any account kept by the solicitor you at a bank or with a building society:

(a)

in connection with the solicitor's your practice; or in connection with any trust of which the solicitor is you are or formerly was were a trustee, for inspection by a person appointed by the SRA for the purpose of preparing a report on compliance with the rules or on whether the account has been used for or in connection with a breach of any of the Principles or other rules, codes or mandatory guidance SRA Handbook requirements made or issued by the SRA. Paragraphs (2)-(7) above apply in relation to this paragraph in the same way as to paragraph (1).

Notes

Guidance notes

(i)

"Solicitor" in rule 34 (as elsewhere in the rules) includes any person to whom the rules apply - see rule 2 (2)(x), rule 4 and note (ii) to rule 4.

(ii)

The SRA²'s powers override any confidence or privilege between solicitoryou and the client.

(##i)

The SRA¹'s monitoring and investigation powers are exercised by Forensic Investigations.

(₩]]

Reasons are never given for a visit by Forensic Investigations, so as:

(a)

to safeguard the SRA's sources The SRA will normally give a brief statement of the reasons for its investigations and inspections but not if the SRA considers that there is a risk that disclosure could:

(a)

breach any duty of confidentiality;

(b)

disclose, or risk disclosure of, a confidential source of information; and (bc)

not to alert a defaulting manager or employee to conceal or compound his or her misappropriations.

[deleted]

significantly increase the risk that those under investigation may destroy evidence, seek to influence witnesses, default, or abscond; or otherwise prejudice or frustrate an investigation or other regulatory action.

(d)

Part F --- Accountants' reports

Rule 35 - 32 - Delivery of accountants' reports

(1)

A solicitor who or which has If you have, at any time during an accounting period, held or received client money, or operated a client's own account as signatory, you must deliver to the SRA an accountant's report for that accounting period within six months of the end of the accounting period. This duty extends to the directors of a company, or the members of an LLP, which is subject to this rule.

(2)

In addition the SRA may require the delivery of an accountant's report in circumstances other than those set out in paragraph (1) above if the SRA has reason to believe that it is in the public interest to do so.

Notes

Guidance notes

(i)

Examples of situations under rule 3532(2) include:

when no report has been delivered but the SRA has reason to believe that a report should have been delivered; when a report has been delivered but the SRA has reason to believe that it may be inaccurate;

when the your conduct of the solicitor gives the SRA reason to believe that it would be appropriate to require earlier delivery of a report (for instance three months after the end of the accounting period);

when the your conduct of the solicitor gives the SRA reason to believe that it would be appropriate to require more frequent delivery of reports (for instance every six months);

when the SRA has reason to believe that the regulatory risk justifies the imposition on a category of solicitors firm of a requirement to deliver reports earlier or at more frequent intervals;

when a condition on a solicitor's practising certificate requires earlier delivery of reports or the delivery of reports at more frequent intervals.

(ii)

For accountant's reports of limited scope see rule 98 (liquidators, trustees in bankruptcy, Court of Protection deputies and trustees of occupational pension schemes), rule 109 (joint accounts) and rule 1110 (operation of a client's own account). For exemption from the obligation to deliver a report, see rule 5 (persons exempt from the rules).

(iii)

The requirement in rule $\frac{3532}{32}$ for a registered foreign lawyer to deliver an accountant's report applies only to a registered foreign lawyer practising in one of the ways set out in rule $2(2)(\times 20)$ (iii).

(iv)

The form of report is dealt with in rule 47.44.

(v)

When client money is held or received by an unincorporated practice, the principals in the practice will have held or received client money. A salaried partner whose name appears in the list of partners on a firm's letterhead, even if the name appears under a separate heading of "salaried partners" or "associate partners", is a principal.

(va) vi)

In the case of an incorporated practice, it is the company or LLP (i.e. the recognised body or licensed body) which will have held or received client money. The recognised body/licensed body and its directors (in the case of a company) or members (in the case of an LLP) will have the duty to deliver an accountant2's report, although the directors or members will not usually have held client money.

(∀ívii)

Assistant solicitors, consultants and other employees do not normally hold client money. An assistant solicitor or consultant might be a signatory for a firm's client account, but this does not constitute holding or receiving client money. If a client or third party hands cash to an assistant solicitor, consultant or other employee, it is the sole principal or the partners (rather than the assistant solicitor, consultant or other employee) who are regarded as having received and held the money. In the case of an incorporated practice, whether a company or an LLP, it would be the recognised body or licensed body itself which would be regarded as having held or received the money.

(viii)

If, exceptionally, an assistant solicitor, consultant or other employee has a client account (as a trustee), or operates a client's own account as signatory, the assistant solicitor, consultant or other employee will have to deliver an accountant's report. The assistant solicitor, consultant or other employee can be included in the report of the practice, but mustwill need to ensure that his or her name is added, and an explanation given.

(∀iiii×)

A solicitor to whom I a cheque or draft is made out to you, and who in the course of practice endorsesyou endorse it over to a client or employer, hasyou have received (and paid) client money. That solicitor You will have to deliver an accountant's report, even if no other client money has been held or received.

(₩)

Rule 32 does not apply to a solicitor or registered European lawyer, employed as an in-house lawyer by a non-solicitor employer, who operates the account of the employer or a related body of the employer.

(xi)

When only a small number of transactions is undertaken or a small volume of client money is handled in an accounting period, a waiver of the obligation to deliver a report may sometimes be granted. Applications should be made to the Information Directorate.

(xxii)

If a solicitors' practice firm owns all the shares in a recognised body or licensed body which is an executor, trustee or nominee company, the practice firm and the recognised body/licensed body may deliver a single accountant's report (see rule 3128(1)(b)).

Rule 36 - 33 - Accounting periods

The norm

(1)

An "accounting period" means the period for which the your accounts of the solicitor are ordinarily made up, except that it must:

(a) begin at the end of the previous accounting period; and cover twelve months.

(b)

Paragraphs (2) to (5) below set out exceptions.

First and resumed reports

For a solicitor who is if you are under a duty to deliver his or her your first report, the accounting period must begin on the date when the solicitor you first held or received client money (or operated a client's own account as signatory), and may cover less than twelve months.

(3)

For a solicitor who is If you are under a duty to deliver his or her your first report after a break, the accounting period must begin on the date when the solicitor you for the first time after the break held or received client money (or operated a client's own account as signatory), and may cover less than twelve months.

Change of accounting period

If a practice changes you change the period for which its your accounts are made up (for example, on a merger, or simply for convenience), the accounting period immediately preceding the change may be shorter than twelve months, or longer than twelve months up to a maximum of 18 months, provided that the accounting period shall not be changed to a period longer than twelve months unless the SRA receives written notice of the change before expiry of the deadline for delivery of the accountant"s report which would have been expected on the basis of the firm'syour old accounting period.

Final reports

(5)

A solicitor wholf you for any reason stops holding or receiving client money (and operating any client's own account as signatory), you must deliver a final report. The accounting period must end on the date upon which the solicitor you stopped holding or receiving client money (and operating any client's own account as signatory), and may cover less than twelve months.

Notes

Guidance notes

(i)

In the case of solicitorspersons joining or leaving a continuing partnership, any accountant's report for the practice firm as a whole will show the names and dates of the principals joining or leaving. For a solicitor person who did not previously hold or receive client money, etc., and has become a principal in the firm, the report for the practice firm will represent, from the date of joining, the solicitor's that person's first report for the purpose of rule 3633(2). For a solicitor person who was a principal in the firm and, on leaving, stops holding or receiving client money, etc., the report for the practice firm will represent, up to the date of leaving, the solicitor's that person's final report for the purpose of rule 3633(5) above.

(ii)

When a partnership splits up, it is usually appropriate for the books to be made up as at the date of dissolution, and for an accountant's report to be delivered within six months of that date. If, however, the old partnership continues to hold or receive client money, etc., in connection with outstanding matters, accountant's reports will continue to be required for those matters; the books should then be made up on completion of the last of those matters and a report delivered within six months of that date. The same would be true for a sole practitioner winding up matters on retirement.

(iii)

When a practice is being wound up, the solicitoryou may be left with money which is unattributable, or belongs to a client who cannot be traced. It may be appropriate to apply to the SRA for authority to withdraw this money from the solicitor's client account - see rule $\frac{2220}{10}(1)$, where $\frac{1000}{100}$ and note (viii) to rule $\frac{2220}{20}$.

Rule 37 - 34 - Qualifications for making a report

A report must be prepared and signed by an accountant

(a)

who is a member of:

(i)

the Institute of Chartered Accountants in England and Wales;

(ii)

the Institute of Chartered Accountants of Scotland;

(iii)

the Association of Chartered Certified Accountants;

(iv)

the Institute of Chartered Accountants in Ireland; or the Association of Authorised Public Accountants; and who is also:

(v)

(b)

(i) an individual who is a registered auditor within the terms of section $\frac{35(1)(a)1239}{35(2)}$ of the Companies Act $\frac{19892006}{35(2)}$; or an employee of such an individual; or a partner in or employee of a partnership which is a registered auditor within the terms of section 35(1)(a)1239 of the Companies Act 19892006; or a director or employee of a company which is a registered auditor within the terms of section $\frac{35}{(1)(a)1239}$ of the Companies Act $\frac{19892006}{(1)(a)1239}$; or a member or employee of an LLP which is a registered auditor within the terms of section $\frac{35(1)}{(a)1239}$ of the Companies Act $\frac{19892006}{1000}$.

(ii)

(iii)

(iv)

(2)

An accountant is not qualified to make a report if:

at any time between the beginning of the accounting period to which the report relates, and the completion of the report:

he or she was a partner or employee, or an officer or employee (in the case of a company), or a member or employee (in the case of an LLP) in the practice firm to which the report relates; or

(ii)

he or she was employed by the same non-solicitor employer as the solicitor or REL for whom the report is being made; or

(iii)

he or she was a partner or employee, or an officer or employee (in the case of a company), or a member or employee (in the case of an LLP) in an accountancy practice which had an ownership interest in, or was part of the group structure of, the licensed body to which the report relates; or

(b)

he or she has been disqualified under paragraph (3) below and notice of disqualification has been given under paragraph (4) (and has not subsequently been withdrawn).

(3)

The SRA may disqualify an accountant from making any accountant's report if:

(a)

the accountant has been found guilty by his or her professional body of professional misconduct or discreditable conduct; or the SRA is satisfied that a solicitor has you have not complied with the rules in respect of matters which the accountant has negligently failed to specify in a report.

(b)

In coming to a decision, the SRA will take into account any representations made by the accountant or his or her professional body.

Written notice of disqualification must be left at or sent by recorded delivery to the address of the accountant shown on an accountant's report or in the records of the accountant's professional body. If sent through the post, receipt will be deemed 48 hours (excluding Saturdays, Sundays and Bank Holidays) after posting.

(5)

An accountant's disqualification may be notified to any solicitor firm likely to be affected and may be printed in the Law Society's Gazette or other publication.

Note

Guidance note

It is not a breach of the rules for a solicitoryou to retain an outside accountant to write up the books of account and to instruct the same accountant to prepare the accountant's report. However, the accountant will have to disclose these circumstances in the report - see the form of report in Appendix 5.

Rule 38-35 - Reporting accountant's rights and duties - letter of engagement

The solicitor You must ensure that the reporting accountant's rights and duties are stated in a letter of engagement incorporating the following terms:

"In accordance with rule 3835 of the Solicitors' SRA Accounts Rules 19982011, you are instructed as follows:

I/this firm/this company/this limited liability partnership recognises that, if during the course of preparing an accountant²'s report:

you discover evidence of fraud or theft in relation to money held by a solicitor (or registered European lawyer, or registered foreign lawyer, or recognised body, or licensed body, or employee of a solicitor or registered European lawyer, or manager or employee of a recognised body or licensed body) for a client or any other person (including money held on trust), or held in an account of a client, or an account of another person, which is operated by a solicitor (or registered European lawyer, registered foreign lawyer, recognised body, licensed body, employee of a solicitor or registered European lawyer, or manager or employee of a recognised body or licensed body, or manager or employee of a recognised body or licensed body, or manager or employee of a recognised body or licensed body); or you obtain information which you have reasonable cause to believe is likely to be of material significance in determining whether a solicitor (or registered European lawyer, or registered foreign lawyer, or recognised body, or licensed body, or employee of a solicitor or registered European lawyer, or manager or employee of a recognised body or licensed body) is a fit and proper person to hold money for clients or other persons (including money held on trust), or to operate an account of a client or an account of another person, you must immediately give a report of the matter to the Solicitors Regulation Authority in accordance withif required to do so under section 34(9) of the Solicitors Act 1974;

(ii)

you may, and are encouraged to, make that report without prior reference to me/this firm/this company/this limited liability partnership;

(iii)

you are to report directly to the Solicitors Regulation Authority should your appointment be terminated following the issue of, or indication of intention to issue, a qualified accountant's report, or following the raising of concerns prior to the preparation of an accountant's report;

(iv)

you are to deliver to me/this firm/this company/this limited liability partnership with your report the completed checklist required by rule 4643 of the Solicitors'SRA Accounts Rules 19982011; to retain for at least three years from the date of signature a copy of the completed checklist; and to produce the copy to the Solicitors Regulation Authority on request;

(v)

you are to retain these terms of engagement for at least three years after the termination of the retainer and to produce them to the Solicitors Regulation Authority on request; and following any direct report made to the Solicitors Regulation Authority under (i) or (iii) above, you are to provide to the Solicitors Regulation Authority on request any further relevant information in your possession or in the possession of your firm.

To the extent necessary to enable you to comply with (i) to (vi) above, I/we waive my/the firm's/the company's/the limited liability partnership¹'s right of confidentiality. This waiver extends to any report made, document produced or information disclosed to the Solicitors Regulation Authority in good faith pursuant to these instructions, even though it may subsequently transpire that you were mistaken in your belief that there was cause for concern."

The letter of engagement and a copy must be signed by the solicitor (or by a partner, or in the case of a company by a director, or in the case of an LLP by a member) you and by the accountant. The solicitor You must keep the copy of the signed letter of engagement for at least three years after the termination of the retainer and produce it to the SRA on request.

Notes

(i)

Any direct report by the accountant to the SRA under rule 38(1)(i) or (iii) should be made to the Fraud and Confidential Intelligence Bureau.

(ii)

Rule 38(1) envisages that the specified terms are incorporated in a letter from the solicitor to the accountant. Instead, the (3)

The specified terms may be included in a letter from the accountant to the solicitor you setting out the terms of the engagement. If so, but the text must be adapted appropriately. The letter must be signed in duplicate by both parties - the solicitor will keep, with you keeping the original, and the accountant the copy.

Guidance note

Any direct report by the accountant to the SRA under rule 35(1)(i) or (iii) should be made to the Fraud and Confidential Intelligence Bureau.

Rule 39-36 – Change of accountant

On instructing an accountancy practice to replace that previously instructed to produce accountant's reports, the solicitor you must immediately notify the SRA of the change and provide the name and business address of the new accountancy practice.

Rule 40-37 – Place of examination

Unless there are exceptional circumstances, the place of examination of a solicitor's your accounting records, files and other relevant documents must be the solicitor's your office and not the office of the accountant. This does not prevent an initial electronic transmission of data to the accountant for examination at the accountant's office with a view to reducing the time which needs to be spent at the solicitor's your office.

Rule 41-38 – Provision of details of bank accounts, etc.

The accountant must request, and the solicitor you must provide, details of all accounts kept or operated by the solicitor you in connection with the solicitor's your practice at any bank, building society or other financial institution at any time during the accounting period to which the report relates. This includes client accounts, office accounts, accounts which are not client accounts but which contain client money, and *clients*¹/₋ own accounts operated by the solicitor you as signatory.

Rule 42-39 – Test procedures

The accountant must examine the your accounting records (including statements and passbooks), client and trust matter files selected by the accountant as and when appropriate, and other relevant documents of the solicitor, and make the following checks and tests:

(a) confirm that the accounting system in every office of the solicitor complies with:

rule 3229 - accounting records for client accounts, etc;

rule 3330 - accounting records for clients' own accounts;

and is so designed that:

(i) an appropriate client ledger account is kept for each client (or other person for whom client money is received, held or paid) or trust;

(ii)

the client ledger accounts show separately from other information details of all client money received, held or paid on account of each client (or other person for whom client money is received, held or paid) or trust; and transactions relating to client money and any other money dealt with through a client account are recorded in the accounting records in a way which distinguishes them from transactions relating to any other money received, held or paid by the solicitor you;

(iii)

(b)

make test checks of postings to the client ledger accounts from records of receipts and payments of client money, and make test checks of the casts of these accounts and records;

(c) compare a sample of payments into and from the client accounts as shown in bank and building society or other financial institutions' statements or passbooks with the solicitor's your records of receipts and payments of client money, including paid cheques;

(d)

test check the system of recording costs and of making transfers in respect of costs from the client accounts;

(e)

make a test examination of a selection of documents requested from the solicitor you in order to confirm:

(i) that the financial transactions (including those giving rise to transfers from one client ledger account to another) evidenced by such documents comply with Parts A and B of the rules, rule $\frac{3027}{28}$ (restrictions on transfers between clients) and rule $\frac{3128}{28}$ (executor, trustee or nominee companies); and that the entries in the accounting records reflect those transactions in a manner complying with rule 3229;

(ii)

(f) subject to paragraph (2) below, extract (or check extractions of) balances on the client ledger accounts during the accounting period under review at not fewer than two dates selected by the accountant (one of which may be the last day of the accounting period), and at each date:

(i) compare the total shown by the client ledger accounts of the liabilities to the clients (and other persons for whom client money is held) and trusts with the cash account balance; and reconcile that cash account balance with the balances held in the client accounts, and accounts which are not client accounts but in which client money is held, as confirmed direct to the accountant by the relevant banks, building societies and other financial institutions;

(g) confirm that reconciliation statements have been made and kept in accordance with rule $\frac{32(729(12))}{32(729(12))}$ and (917)(a);

(h)

make a test examination of the client ledger accounts to see whether payments from the client account have been made on any individual account in excess of money held on behalf of that client (or other person for whom client money is held) or trust;

(i) check the office ledgers, office cash accounts and the statements provided by the bank, building society or other financial institution for any office account maintained by the solicitoryou in connection with the practice, to see whether any client money has been improperly paid into an office account or, if properly paid into an office account under rule $\frac{19}{17}(1)(b)$ or rule $\frac{21}{19}(1)$, has been kept there in breach of the rules;

(j) check the accounting records kept under rule $\frac{32(929(17))}{(d)}$ and $(\frac{1119}{19})$ for client money held outside a client account to ascertain what transactions have been effected in respect of this money and to confirm that the client has given appropriate instructions under rule $\frac{1615}{(1)}(1)(a)$; make a test examination of the client ledger accounts to see whether rule $\frac{32(629(10))}{32(629(10))}$ (accounting records when acting for both lender and borrower) has been complied with;

(k)

(I)

for liquidators, trustees in bankruptcy, Court of Protection deputies and trustees of occupational pension schemes, check that records are being kept in accordance with rule $\frac{32(8), (929(15), (17))}{(200)}$ and ($\frac{1220}{(200)}$), and cross-check transactions with client or trust matter files when appropriate; check that statements and passbooks and/or duplicate statements and copies of passbook entries are being kept in accordance with rule $\frac{32(929(17)(b)(ii))}{32(929(17)(b)(ii))}$ and $(\frac{1321}{12})$ (record-keeping requirements for joint accounts), and cross-check transactions with client matter files when appropriate; for money withdrawn from client account under rule 2220(1)(gaj), check that records are being kept in accordance with rule 32(8A), (929(16), (17)(a) and (13A22), and cross-check with client or trust matter files when appropriate; check that interest earned on separate designated client accounts, and in accounts opened on clients' instructions under rule 16(1)(a), is credited in accordance with rule 24(1) and (6)(a), and note (i) to rule 24;

(m)

(n)

(0)

in the case of private practice only, check that for the period which will be covered by the accountant."s report the practice firm was covered for the purposes of the Solicitors'SRA Indemnity Insurance Rules in respect of its offices in England and Wales by:

certificates of qualifying insurance outside the assigned risks pool; or a policy issued by the assigned risks pool manager; or certificates of indemnity cover under the professional requirements of a registered European lawyer'san REL's home jurisdiction in accordance with paragraph 1 of Appendix 3 to those Rules, together with the SRA's written grant of full exemption; or certificates of indemnity cover under the professional requirements of a registered European lawyer'san REL's home jurisdiction plus certificates of a difference in conditions policy with a qualifying insurer under paragraph 2 of Appendix 3 to those Rules, together with the SRA's written grant of partial exemption; and ask for any information and explanations required as a result of making the above checks and tests.

Extracting balances

For the purposes of paragraph (1)(f) above, if a solicitor uses you use a computerised or mechanised system of accounting which automatically produces an extraction of all client ledger balances, the accountant need not check all client ledger balances extracted on the list produced by the computer or machine against the individual records of client ledger accounts, provided the accountant:

(a) confirms that a satisfactory system of control is in operation and the accounting records are in balance;

(b) carries out a test check of the extraction against the individual records; and states in the report that he or she has relied on this exception.

(c)

Notes

Guidance notes

(i)

The rules do not require a complete audit of the solicitor's your accounts nor do they require the preparation of a profit and loss account or balance sheet.

(ii)

In making the comparisons under rule 4239(1)(f), some accountants improperly use credits of one client against debits of another when checking total client liabilities, thus failing to disclose a shortage. A debit balance on a client account when no funds are held for that client results in a shortage which must be disclosed as a result of the comparison.

(iii)

The main purpose of confirming balances direct with banks, etc., under rule 4239(1)(f)(ii) is to ensure that the solicitor'syour records accurately reflect the sums held at the bank. The accountant is not expected to conduct an active search for undisclosed accounts.

In checking compliance with rule $\frac{2220}{2}(1)(\frac{1}{3})$, the accountant should check on a sample basis that the solicitor hasyou have complied with rule $\frac{22(2A20(2))}{2}$ and is are keeping appropriate records in accordance with rules $\frac{32(3A)}{2}, \frac{929(16)}{2}, \frac{17}{2}$ and $\frac{13A22}{2}$. The accountant is not expected to judge the adequacy of the steps taken to establish the identity of, and to trace, the rightful owner of the money.

Rule 43-40 – Departures from guidelines for accounting procedures and systems

The accountant should be aware of the *SRA*¹/₂ s guidelines for accounting procedures and systems (see rule 2926), and must note in the accountant's report any substantial departures from the guidelines discovered whilst carrying out work in preparation of the report. (See also rule 4441(e).)

Rule 44-41 – Matters outside the accountant's remit

The accountant is not required:

(a)

to extend his or her enquiries beyond the information contained in the documents produced, supplemented by any information and explanations given by the solicitor you;

(b)

to enquire into the stocks, shares, other securities or documents of title held by the solicitor you on behalf of the solicitor's your clients;

(c)

to consider whether the your accounting records of the solicitor have been properly written up at any time other than the time at which his or her examination of the accounting records takes place; to check compliance with the provisions in rule $\frac{24(2)}{10}$ to $\frac{(5)}{3}$ and $\frac{(6)}{(b)}$ and \frac to make a detailed check on compliance with the guidelines for accounting procedures and systems (see rules 2926 and 4340); or to determine the adequacy of the steps taken under paragraphs (a) and (b) of rule 22(2A20(2)).

(d)

(e)

(f)

Rule 45-42 – Privileged documents

A solicitor, When acting on a client's instructions, you will normally have the right on the grounds of privilege as between solicitor and client to decline to produce any document requested by the accountant for the purposes of his or her examination. In these circumstances, the accountant must qualify the report and set out the circumstances.

Note

Guidance note

In a recognised body or licensed body with one or more managers who are not legally qualified, legal professional privilege may not attach to work which is neither done nor supervised by a legally qualified individual - see Legal Services Act 2007, section 190(3) to (7), and Schedule 22, paragraph 17.

Rule 46-43 – Completion of checklist

The accountant should exercise his or her professional judgment in adopting a suitable "audit" programme, but must also complete and sign a checklist in the form published from time to time by the SRA. The solicitor You must obtain the completed checklist, retain it for at least three years from the date of signature and produce it to the SRA on request.

Notes

Guidance notes

(i)

The current checklist appears at Appendix 4. It is issued by the SRA to solicitors firms at the appropriate time for completion by their reporting accountants.

(ii)

The letter of engagement required by rule 3835 imposes a duty on the accountant to hand the completed checklist to the solicitorfirm, to keep a copy for three years and to produce the copy to the SRA on request.

Rule 47 -44 – Form of accountant's report

The accountant must complete and sign his or her report in the form published from time to time by the SRA. An explanation of any significant difference between liabilities to clients and client money held, as identified at section 4 of the report, must be given by either the accountant or you.

Notes

Guidance notes

(i)

The current form of accountant's report appears at Appendix 5.

(ii)

The form of report is prepared and issued by the SRA to solicitors firms at the appropriate time for completion by their reporting accountants. Separate reports can be delivered for each principal in a partnership but most firms deliver one report in the name of all the principals. For assistant solicitors, consultants and other employees, see rule 3532, notes (vivii) and (viii).

(iiai)

An incorporated practice will deliver only one report, on behalf of the company and its directors, or on behalf of the LLP and its members - see rule $\frac{3532}{10}$ (1).

(ⅲ) iv)

Although it may be agreed that the accountant send the report direct to the SRA, the responsibility for delivery is that of the solicitorfirm. The form of report requires the accountant to confirm that either a copy of the report has been sent to each of the persons (including bodies corporate) to whom the report relates, or a copy of the report has been sent to a named partner on behalf of all the partners in the firm. A similar confirmation is required in respect of the directors of a recognised body/licensed body which is a company, or the members of a recognised body/licensed body which is an LLP.

(₩⊻)

A reporting accountant is not required to report on trivial breaches due to clerical errors or mistakes in book-keeping, provided that they have been rectified on discovery and the accountant is satisfied that no client suffered any loss as a result.

(∀) ∨i)

In many practices, clerical and book-keeping errors will arise. In the majority of cases these may be classified by the reporting accountant as trivial breaches. However, a "trivial breach" cannot be precisely defined. The amount involved, the nature of the breach, whether the breach is deliberate or accidental, how often the same breach has occurred, and the time outstanding before correction (especially the replacement of any shortage) are all factors which should be considered by the accountant before deciding whether a breach is trivial.

(∀i)

The SRA receives a number of reports which are qualified only by reference to trivial breaches, but which show a significant difference between liabilities to clients and client money held in client and other accounts. An explanation for this difference, from either the accountant or the solicitor, must be given.

(vii)

Accountants' reports should be sent to the Information Directorate.

(viii)

For direct reporting by the accountant to the SRA in cases of concern, see rule 3835 and note (i) to that rule.

Rule 48 - Practices 45 - Firms with two or more places of business

If a practice firm has two or more offices:

(a) separate reports may be delivered in respect of the different offices; and

(b) separate accounting periods may be adopted for different offices, provided that:

(i) separate reports are delivered;

(ii)

every office is covered by a report delivered within six months of the end of its accounting period; and there are no gaps between the accounting periods covered by successive reports for any particular office or offices.

(iii)

Rule 49 - 46 - Waivers

The SRA may waive in writing in any particular case or cases any of the provisions of Part F of the rules, and may revoke any waiver.

Note

Guidance note

Applications for waivers should be made to the Information Directorate. In appropriate cases, solicitors firms may be granted a waiver of the obligation to deliver an accountant's report (see rule 3532, and note (xi) to that rule). The circumstances in which a waiver of any other provision of Part F would be given must be extremely rare.

Part G - Commencement - Overseas practice

Rule 47 – Purpose of the overseas accounts provisions

The purpose of applying different accounts provisions to overseas practice is to ensure similar protection for client

Rule 48 – Application and Interpretation

(1)

Part G of these rules applies to your practice from an office outside England and Wales to the extent specified in each rule in this Part. (2)

If it is fair and reasonable for interest to be earned for the client on that client money, you must ensure that:

(a)

the client money is dealt with so that fair and reasonable interest is earned upon it, and that the interest

is paid to the client;

(b)

the client is paid a sum equivalent to the interest that would have been earned if the client money had earned fair and reasonable interest; or any alternative written agreement with the client setting out arrangements regarding the payment of interest on that money is carried out.

(c)

(3)

In deciding whether it is fair and reasonable for interest to be earned for a client on client money, you must have regard to all the circumstances, including:

(a)

the amount of the money;

(b)

the length of time for which you are likely to hold the money; and

(c)

the law and prevailing custom of lawyers practising in the jurisdiction in which you are practising.

Rule 50 - Commencement

The Solicitors' – Accounts Rules 1998 took effect on 22 July 1998 and had to be implemented by 1 May 2000. They replaced the Solicitors' Accounts Rules 1991, the Solicitors' Accounts (Legal Aid Temporary Provision) Rule 1992 and the Accountant's Report Rules 1991.

Practice from an office outside the UK

(1)

You must comply with (3) and (4) below in relation to practice from an office outside the UK if you are:

(a)

a solicitor sole practitioner who has held or received client money;

(b)

a lawyer-controlled body which has held or received client money as a firm;

(c)

a lawyer of England and Wales, or a non-lawyer, who is a manager of a lawyer -controlled body which holds or receives client money.

(d)

a lawyer of England and Wales who is a manager of any other firm which is controlled by lawyers of England and Wales, either directly as partners, members or owners, or indirectly by their ownership of bodies corporate which are partners, members or owners, if the firm holds or receives client money;

(e)

a solicitor who holds or receives client money as a named trustee;

a lawyer of England and Wales, or a non-lawyer, who is a manager of a lawyer -controlled body and who holds or receives client money as a named trustee.

Practice from an office in Scotland or Northern Ireland

(2)

You must comply with (3) and (4) below in relation to practice from an office in Scotland or Northern Ireland if you are:

(a)

a solicitor or REL sole practitioner who has held or received client money;

(b)

a lawyer-controlled body, or an REL-controlled body, which has held or received client money as a firm;

(c)

a lawyer of England and Wales, an REL, a European lawyer registered with the BSB or a non-lawyer, who is a manager of a lawyer-controlled body, or an REL-controlled body, which holds or receives client money.

(d)

a lawyer of England and Wales or REL who is a manager of any other firm which is controlled by lawyers of England and Wales and/or RELs, either directly as partners, members or owners, or indirectly by their ownership of bodies corporate which are partners, members or owners, if the firm holds or receives client money.

(e)

a solicitor or REL who holds or receives client money as a named trustee;

(f)

a lawyer of England and Wales, a European lawyer registered with the BSB or a non-lawyer, who is a manager of a lawyer-controlled body, or an REL-controlled body, and who holds or receives client money as a named trustee.

Dealings with client money

(3)

In all dealings with client money, you must ensure that:

(a)

it is kept in a client account, separate from money which is not client money;

(b)

on receipt, it is paid without delay into a client account and kept there, unless the client has expressly or by implication agreed that the money shall be dealt with otherwise or you pay it straight over to a third party in the execution of a trust under which it is held:

(c)

it is not paid or withdrawn from a client account except:

(i)

on the specific authority of the client;

(ii)

where the payment or withdrawal is properly required:

(A)
	for a payment to or on behalf of the client:
(B)
	for or towards powment of a debt due to the firm from the client or is reimburgement of for or towards payment of a debt due to the firm from the client or in reimbursement of money expended by the firm on behalf of the client; or (C)
(0)
	for or towards payment of costs due to the firm from the client, provided that a bill of costs or other written intimation of the amount of the costs incurred has been delivered to the client and it has thereby (or otherwise in writing) been made clear to the client that the money held will be applied in payment of the costs due; or (iii)
	in proper eventtion of a trust under which it is hold:
	in proper execution of a trust under which it is held:
(d)

	for all money received, held or paid on behalf of that client or trust ; and all accounts, books, ledgers and records kept in relation to the firm's client account(s) are preserved for at least six years from the date of the last entry therein.

(e)

Accountants' reports

(4)

(a)

You must deliver an accountant's report in respect of any period during which you or your firm have held or received client money and you were subject to (3) above within six months of the end of that period.

(b)

The accountant's report must be signed by the reporting accountant, who must be an accountant qualified in England and Wales or in the overseas jurisdiction where your office is based, or by such other person as the SRA may think fit. The SRA may for reasonable cause disqualify a person from signing accountants' reports.

(c)

The accountant's report must be based on a sufficient examination of the relevant documents to give the reporting accountant a reasonable indication whether or not you have complied with (3) above during the period covered by the report, and must include the following:

(i)

your name, practising address(es) and practising style and the name(s) of the firm's managers;

(ii)

the name, address and qualification of the reporting accountant;

(iii)

an indication of the nature and extent of the examination the reporting accountant has made of the relevant documents:

(iv)

a statement of the total amount of money held at banks or similar institutions on behalf of clients and trusts, and of the total liabilities to clients and trusts, on any date selected by the reporting accountant (including the last day), falling within the period under review; and an explanation of any difference between the total amount of money held for clients and trusts and the total liabilities to clients and trusts:

(v)

if the reporting accountant is satisfied that (so far as may be ascertained from the examination) you have complied with (3) above during the period covered by the report, except for trivial breaches, or situations where you have been bound by a local rule not to comply, a statement to that effect: and if the reporting accountant is not sufficiently satisfied to give a statement under (v) above, details of any matters in respect of which it appears to the reporting accountant that you have not complied with (3) above.

(vi)

Rule 51 – Production of documents, information and explanations

(1)

You must promptly comply with:

(a)

a written notice from the SRA that you must produce for inspection by the appointee of the SRA all documents held by you or held under your control and all information and explanations requested:

(i)

in connection with your practice; or in connection with any trust of which you are, or formerly were, a trustee;

(ii)

for the purpose of ascertaining whether any person subject to Part G of these rules is complying with or has complied with any provision of this Part of these rules, or on whether the account has been used for or in connection with a breach of any of the Principles or other SRA Handbook requirements made or issued by the SRA; and a notice given by the SRA in accordance with section 44B or 44BA of the LSA or section 93 of the LSA for the provision of documents, information or explanations.

(b)

(2)

SRA to:

(a)

prepare a report on the documents produced under (1) above; and seek verification from clients, staff and the banks, building societies or other financial institutions used by you.

(b)

(3)

You must comply with all requests from the SRA or its appointee as to:

(a)

the form in which you produce any documents you hold electronically; and photocopies of any documents to take away.

(b)

(4)

A notice under this rule is deemed to be duly served:

(a)

on the date on which it is delivered to or left at your address;

(b)

on the date on which it is sent electronically to your e-mail or fax address; or

(c)

48 hours (excluding Saturdays, Sundays and Bank Holidays) after it has been sent by post or document exchange to your last notified practising address.

Guidance notes

(i)

If your firm has offices in and outside England and Wales, a single accountant's report may be submitted covering your practice from offices both in, and outside, England and Wales—such a report must cover compliance both with Parts A to F of these rules, and with Part G of these rules.

(ii)

The accounting requirements and the obligation to deliver an accountant's report in this part of the rules are designed to apply to you in relation to money held or received by your firm unless it is primarily the practice of lawyers of other jurisdictions. The fact that they do not apply in certain cases is not intended to allow a lower standard of care in the handling of client money—simply to prevent the "domestic provisions" applying "by the back door" in a disproportionate or inappropriate way.

(iii)

In deciding whether interest ought, in fairness, to be paid to a client, the fact that the interest is or would be negligible, or it is customary in that jurisdiction to deal with interest in a different way, may mean that interest is not payable under rule 49(2).

Rule 52 – Waivers

The SRA may waive in writing in any particular case or cases any of the provisions of Part G of the rules, may place conditions on, and may revoke, any waiver.

Guidance note

Applications for waivers should be made to the Professional Ethics Guidance Team. You will need to show that your circumstances are exceptional in order for a waiver to be granted.

Part H – Transitional provisions

Rule 53 – Transitional provisions

(1)

From 31 March 2012, rule 2(2) of these rules shall have effect subject to the following amendments:

(a)

in sub-paragraph (zk) ("non-solicitor employer"), omit the words ", recognised sole practitioner";

(b)

omit sub-paragraph (zv) ("recognised sole practitioner");

(c)

in sub-paragraph (zzo) ("you"):

(i)

in sub-paragraph (ii)(C), omit the words ", recognised sole practitioner" and ", or of a sole practitioner who should be a recognised sole practitioner, but has not been authorised by the SRA".

(ii)

in sub-paragraph (iii)(E), delete the comma and insert the word "or" between the words "recognised body" and "licensed body", and omit the words "or recognised sole practitioner":

(iii)

for sub-paragraph (iii)(F), substitute "as an employee of a partnership or a sole practitioner which should be a recognised body but has not been authorised by the SRA";

(iv)

in sub-paragraph (vi), insert the words "or a sole practitioner" after the word "partnership"; and omit sub-paragraph (vii).

(v)

(2)

With effect from the coming into force of the Order giving equivalent statutory protections to client money held by a licensed body, rule 13 shall have effect subject to the following amendments:

(a)

delete rule 13(6); and

(b)

in note (iii) to rule 13, omit the words "of a recognised body or recognised sole practitioner" in the first sentence, and delete the second and last sentences.

Appendix 3 - SRA Guidelines - Accounting Procedures and Systems

1. Introduction

Back to VGW&Co Highlights list

1.1

These guidelines, published under rule 26 of the Solicitors'SRA Accounts Rules 19982011, are intended to be a benchmark or broad statement of good practice requirements which should be present in an effective regime for the proper control of client money. They should therefore be of positive assistance to firms in establishing or reviewing appropriate procedures and systems. They do not override, or detract from the need to comply fully with, the Accounts Rules.

1.2

References to pmartnagers or firms in the guidelines are intended to include sole practitioners, and recognised bodies and their licensed bodies, and the managers of those bodies.

2. General

2.1

Compliance with the Accounts Rules is the equal responsibility of all pmartnagers in a firm. This responsibility also extends to the Compliance Officer for Finance and Administration, whether or not a manager (see rule 6). They should establish policies and systems to ensure that the firm complies fully with the rules. including procedures for verifying that the controls are operating effectively. Responsibility for day to day supervision may be delegated to one or more pmartnagers to enable effective control to be exercised. Delegation of total responsibility to a cashier or book-keeper is not acceptable.

2.2

The firm should hold a copy of the current version of the Solicitors' Accounts Rules and/or have ready access to the current on-line version. The person who maintains the books of account must have a full knowledge of the requirements of the rules and the accounting requirements of solicitors' firms.

2.3

Proper books of account should be maintained on the double-entry principle. They should be legible, up to date and contain narratives with the entries which identify and/or provide adequate information about the transaction. Entries should be made in chronological order and the current balance should be shown on client ledger accounts, or be readily ascertainable, in accordance with rule 29(9).

2.4

Ledger accounts for clients, other persons or trusts should include the name of the client or other person or trust and contain a heading which provides a description of the matter or transaction.

2.5

Separate designated client accounts should be brought within the ambit of the systems and procedures for the control of client money, including reconciliations (see below).

2.6

Manual systems for recording client money are capable of complying with these guidelines and there is no requirement on firms to adopt computerised systems. A computer system, with suitable support procedures will, however, usually provide an efficient means of producing the accounts and associated control information.

2.76

If a computer system is introduced When introducing new systems, care must be taken to ensure:

(1)

that balances transferred from the old books of account of the old system are reconciled with the opening balances held on the new system before day to day operation commences; that the new system operates correctly before the old system is abandoned. This may require a period of parallel running of the old and new systems and the satisfactory reconciliation of the two sets of records before the old system ceases.

(2)

2.87

The firm should ensure that office account entries in relation to each client or trust matter are maintained up to date as well as the client account entries. Credit balances on office account in respect of client or trust matters should be fully investigated.

2.98

The firm should establish policies and operate a system to identify promptly situations which may require systems for the payment of fair and reasonable interest to clients in accordance with rules 22 and 23.

3. Receipt of client money

The firm should have procedures for identifying client money, including cash, when received in the firm, and for promptly recording the receipt of the money either in the books of account or a register for later posting to the client cash book and ledger accounts. The procedures should cover money received through the post, electronically or direct by fee earners or other personnel. They should also cover the safekeeping of money prior to payment to bank.

3.2

The firm should have a system which ensures that client money is paid promptly into a client account.

3.3

The firm should have a system for identifying money which should not be in a client account and for transferring it without delay.

3.4

The firm should determine a policy and operate a system for dealing with money which is a mixture of office money and client money, or client money and out-of-scope money, or client money, out-of-scope money and office money, in compliance with rules 17- 19.

4. Payments from client account

4.1

The firm should have clear procedures for ensuring that all withdrawals from client accounts are properly authorised. In particular, suitable persons, consistent with rule 23(1), should be named for the following purposes:

(1)

authorisation of internal payment vouchers;

(2)

signing client account cheques;

(3)

authorising telegraphic or electronic transfers.

No other personnel should be allowed to authorise or sign the documents.

4.1.A2

The firm should establish clear procedures and systems for ensuring that persons permitted to authorise the withdrawal of client money from a client account have an appropriate understanding of the requirements of the rules, including rules 20 and 21 which set out when and how a withdrawal from client account may properly be made.

4.23

Persons nominated for the purpose of authorising internal payment vouchers should, for each payment, ensure there is supporting evidence showing clearly the reason for the payment, and the date of it. Similarly, persons signing cheques and authorising transfers should ensure there is a suitable voucher or other supporting evidence to support the payment.

4.34

The firm should have clear systems and procedures for authorising withdrawals from client accounts by electronic means, with appropriate safeguards and controls to ensure that all such withdrawals are properly authorised.

4.5

The firm should have a system for checking the balances on client ledger accounts to ensure no debit balances occur. Where payments are to be made other than out of cleared funds, clear policies and procedures must be in place to ensure that adequate risk assessment is applied.

N.B. If incoming payments are ultimately dishonoured, a debit balance will arise, in breach of the rules, and full replacement of the shortfall will be required under rule 7. See also rule $\frac{2220}{22}$, notes (v) and (vi).

4.46

The firm should establish systems for the transfer of costs from client account to office account in accordance with rule17(2) and (3). Normally transfers should be made only on the basis of rendering a bill or written notification. The payment from the client account should be by way of a cheque or transfer in favour of the firm or sole principal – see rule 21(4).

4.57

The firm should establish policies and operate systems to control and record accurately any transfers between clients of the firm. Where these arise as a result of loans between clients, the written authority of both the lender and borrower must be obtained in accordance with rule 27(2).

4.68

The firm should establish policies and operate systems for the timely closure of files and the prompt accounting for surplus balances in accordance with rule 14(3).

4.79

The firm should establish systems in accordance with rule 14(4) to keep clients (or other people on whose behalf money is held) regularly informed when funds are retained for a specified reason at the end of a matter or the substantial conclusion of a matter.

5. Overall control of client accounts

The firm should maintain control of all its bank and building society accounts opened for the purpose of holding client money. In the case of a joint account, a suitable degree of control should be exercised.

5.2

Central records or central registers must be kept in respect of:

(1)

accounts held for client money, which are not client accounts (rules 15(1)(a), 16(d) and 29(19));

practice as a liquidator, trustee in bankruptcy, Court of Protection deputy or trustee of an occupational pension scheme (rules 8 and 29(20)); joint accounts rules 9 and 29(21));

(4)

dividend payments received by an executor, trustee or nominee company as nominee (rules 28(2) and 29(23)); and clients' own accounts (rules 10, 15(1)(b) and 30(3)).

(5)

5.3

In addition, there should be a master list of all:

general client accounts;

separate designated client accounts; accounts held in respect of 5.2 above; and office accounts.

The master list should show the current status of each account; e.g. currently in operation or closed with date of closure.

5.4

The firm should operate a system to ensure that accurate reconciliations of the client accounts are carried out at least every five weeks or, in the case of passbook-operated separate designated client accounts for money held by solicitor-trustees, every 14 weeks. In particular it should ensure that:

(1)

a full list of client ledger balances is produced. Any debit balances should be listed, fully investigated and rectified immediately. The total of any debit balances cannot be "netted off" against the total of credit balances; a full list of unpresented cheques is produced;

(2)

(3)

a list of outstanding lodgements is produced; formal statements are produced reconciling the client account cash book balances, aggregate client ledger balances and the client bank accounts. All unresolved differences must be investigated and, where appropriate, corrective action taken; a partnera manager or the Compliance Officer for Finance and Administration checks the reconciliation statement and any corrective action, and ensures that enquiries are made into any unusual or apparently unsatisfactory items or still unresolved matters.

(4)

(5)

5.5

Where a computerised system is used, the The firm should have clear policies, systems and procedures to control access to computerised client accounts by determining the personnel who should have "write to" and "read only" access. Passwords should be held confidentially by designated personnel and changed regularly to maintain security. Access to the system should not unreasonably be restricted to a single person nor should more people than necessary be given access.

The firm should establish policies and systems for the retention of the accounting records to ensure:

books of account, reconciliations, bills, bank statements and passbooks are kept for at least 6 years; paid cheques, digital images of paid cheques and other authorities for the withdrawal of money from a client account are kept for at least 2 years;

other vouchers and internal expenditure authorisation documents relating directly to entries in the client account books are kept for at least two years.

The firm should ensure that unused client account cheques are stored securely to prevent unauthorised access. Blank cheques should not be pre-signed. Any cancelled cheques should be retained.
